Loon Lakers opposed to power station

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

As president of the Loon Lakes Management Assoc., John Bambule will only say that his group is watching construction of the Commonwealth Edison power substation progress.

"So long as they don't do anything that would damage or pollute our lake, Loon Lakes Management Assoc. can't voice its objection," said Bambule.

But as a private citizen, Bambule, like others in the area, is opposed to the location of the power substation and 138,000-volt lines running up Rte. 83 to feed it.

"Where I live on Loon Lake, I would see the 80-foot power poles," he said. "I don't want to be seeing that instead of a sunset."

Although the Illinois Commerce Commission has yet to approve Com Ed's plan, construction of the power substation near Loon Lake has started.

The power company's proposal is to run high-power lines through the center of Lake Villa along the railroad tracks to the substation west of Loon Lakes.

Lake Villa residents are strongly opposed to the plan. West Milwaukee citizens are also reportedly upset with the plan.

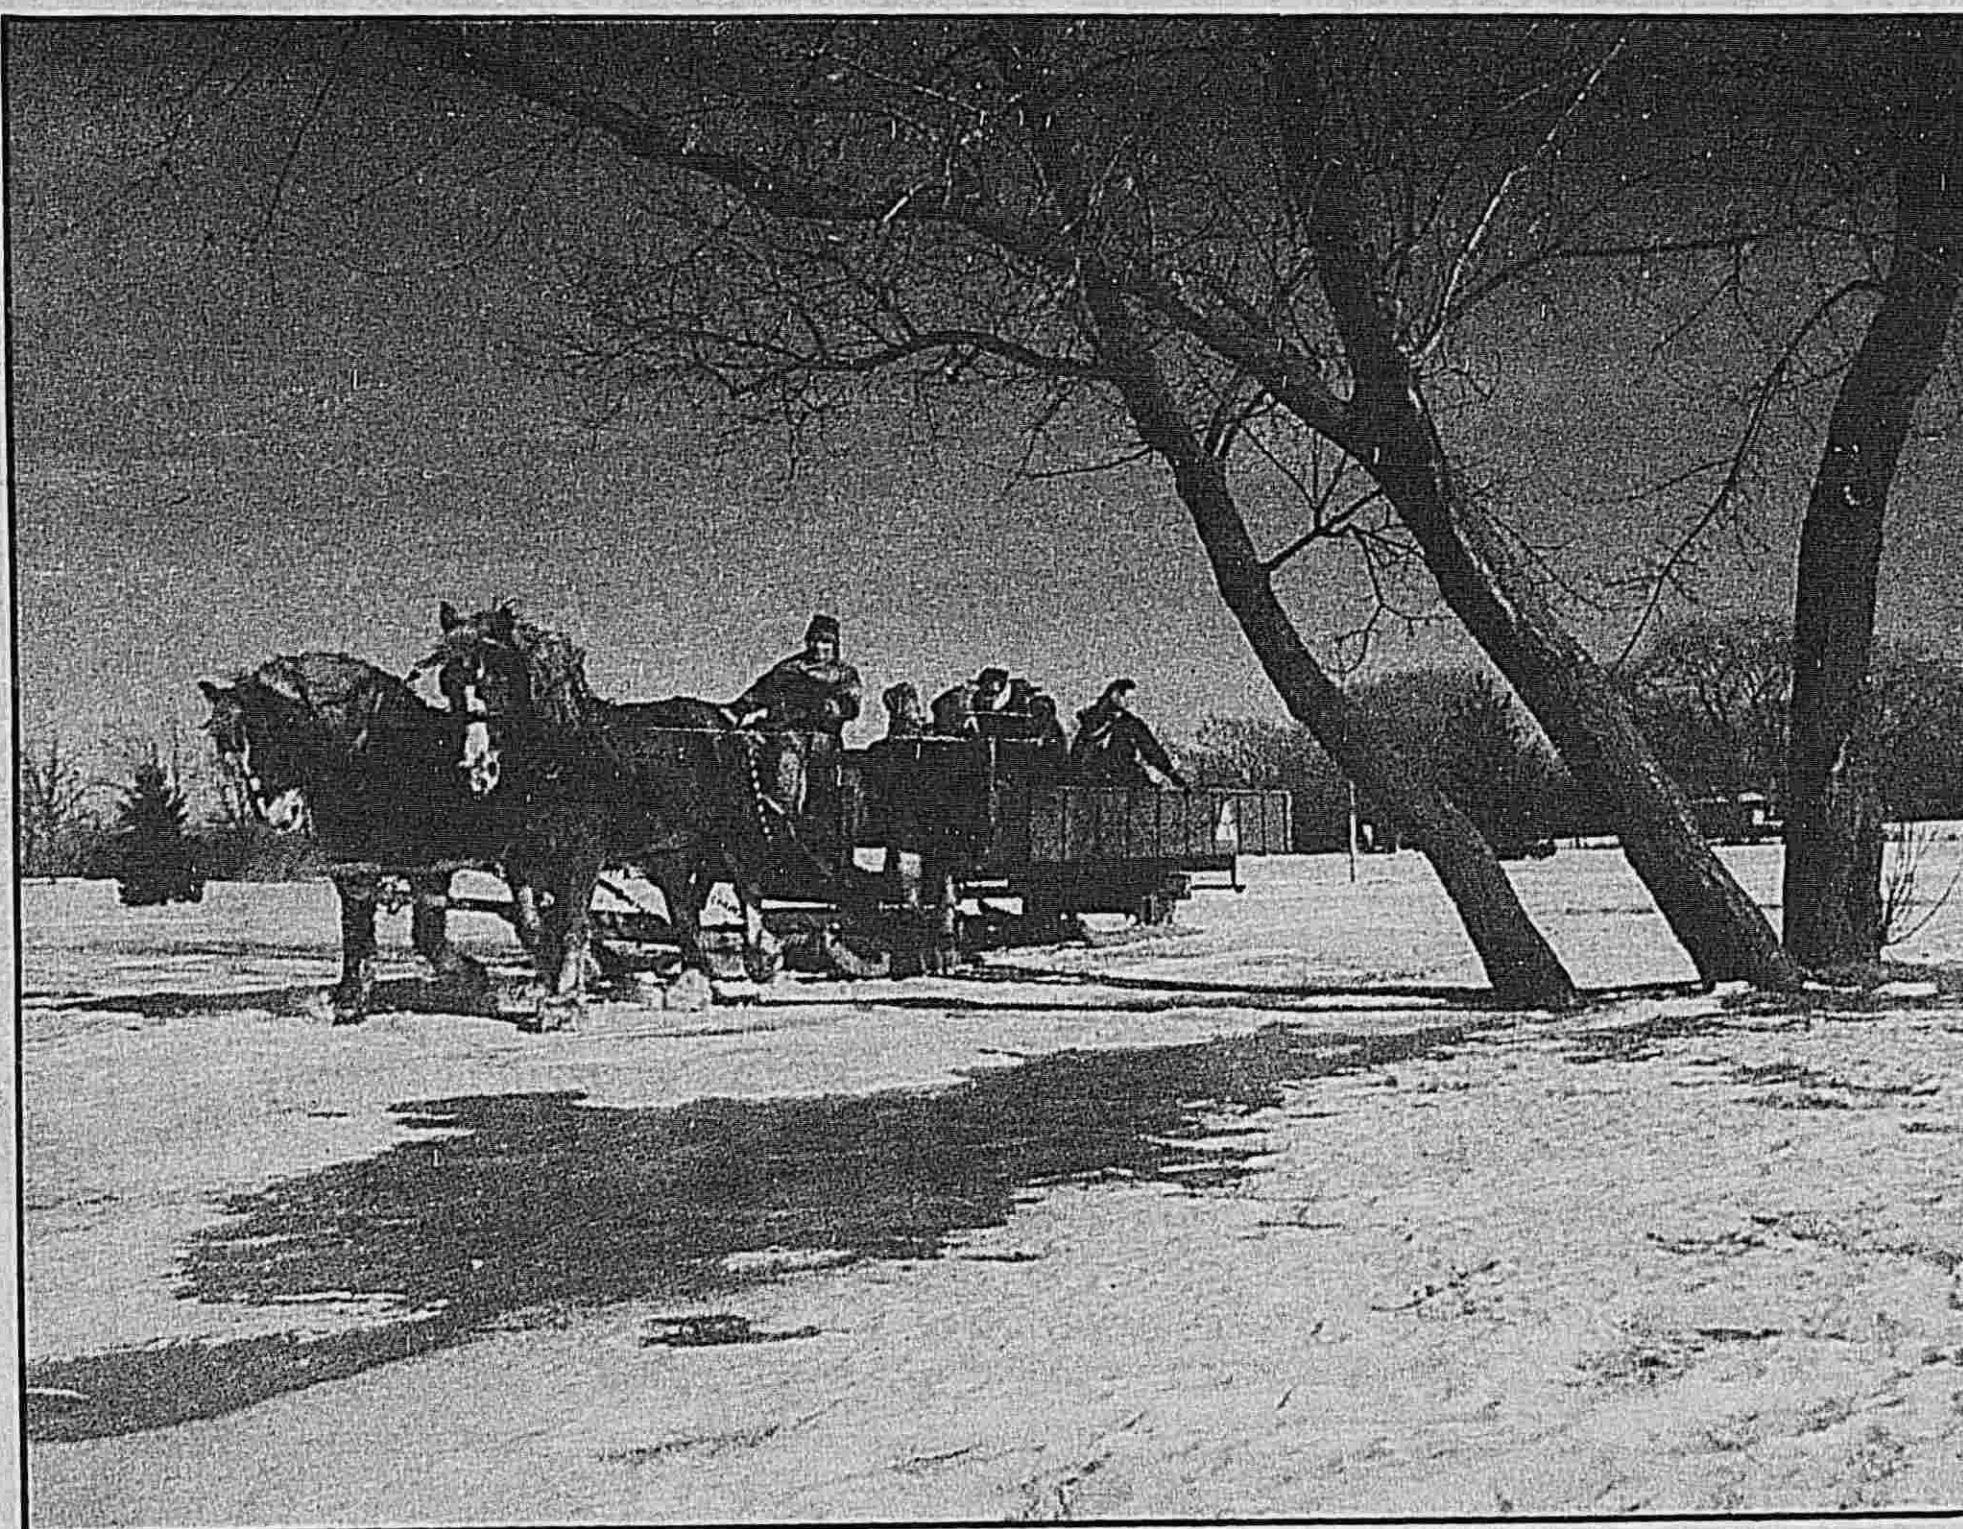

Com Ed contends the wires and substation are necessary not only to improve present service in Antioch, but to prepare for future growth in the area.

Residents don't oppose the idea that growth must be dealt with. They object to the route Com Ed is taking and the way the power company is dealing with the public.

"The people in Loon Lakes, and I guess in other areas it appears too, feel they haven't had their opportunity to speak," said resident Ted Delang.

"We feel Commonwealth Edison wants the power lines and wants them where they want them and doesn't want to be bothered by homeowners who feel they have rights."

Adds Bambule, "I want to make sure that if decisions are made, in my own view they are the right decisions. There's no going back."

Budget cuts could hurt ACHS aid

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

In the wake of Gov. Jim Edgar's across-the-board budget cuts proposal, the attitude at Antioch Community High School is wait and see.

Asked what the 7 percent cuts would mean for ACHS, if passed, Business Manager Ken Wierschem answered, "Who knows. I mean really, it's hard to say."

The problem, Wierschem said, is that he doesn't know where the proposal will hit the high school's budget.

The cuts could be aimed at state aid, at aid categories or at all of the above, he said.

For ACHS, however, the worst scenario would be a 7 percent cut in state aid.

Wierschem said ACHS receives the most state aid of any high school in Lake County.

That figure is not per capita — North Chicago receives more state aid per student than ACHS — but a 7 percent cut in the highest portion of state aid paid to any high school in the county certainly will have its impact.

"If we get a million dollars in state aid and they get $10,000, a 7 percent cut is going to mean more to us than to them," (Continued on Page 5)

Discussing education, business

Toni Rogan of Mundelein High School, left, listens as Robert W. Galvin makes a point. Galvin, chairman of the executive committee for Motorola, Inc., was guest speaker for quarterly meeting of Lake County Business Industry Education Consortium. Rogan is a member of consortium's program committee. Galvin was one of business leaders who accompanied President Bush's trip to the Far East.

Galvin sees success in mission to Japan

by BILL SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

Just back from the Pacific Rim tour with President Bush, Robert W. Galvin, chairman of the executive committee of Motorola Inc., told Lake County business leaders and educators that the much criticized visit "was a remarkably successful trip."

Speaking Tuesday at the quarterly meeting of the Lake County Business Industry Education Consortium, Galvin said President Bush accomplished two things that have gone unreported by the nation's media:

1. Assured all the U.S. friends among the Rim nations that the U.S. will be faithful in its role of promoting security.

2. Advanced the cause of democracy.

Addressing nearly 150 persons at a lunch at the Diplomat, Gurnee, the internationally respected business leader said both factors are essential to U.S. investment in Japan and the Far East.

Galvin, who heads a company with a plant in Grayslake and another under construction of Rte. 45, said America "has a more solid basis for doing business" in the Pacific Rim arena because of President Bush's trip.

"President Bush said the right things in the right places. This is the first time that we have a President standing shoulder to shoulder with business," declared the chief executive of a company that has been selling to Japan successfully for 20 years.

Galvin split his talk between personal observations of the Presidential trade tour and how Motorola is playing a leadership role in business education.

Motorola management discovered, Galvin remarked, that the subject of quality is not taught. "We decided to do something about that. We had to learn from each other."

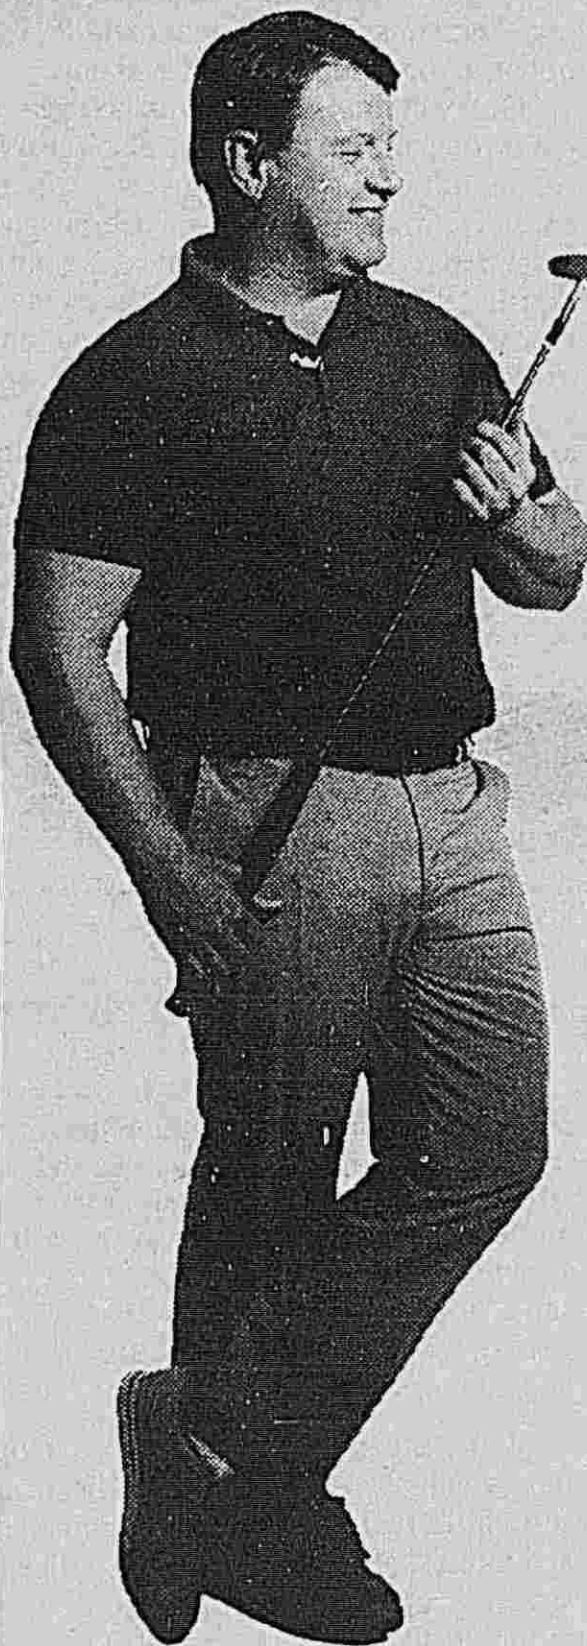

Catching the interest of American universities, Motorola University this year will be teaching how to teach quality to more than 30 professors from top universities out of 100 which were invited to participate. Courses will stress creativity in business and manufacturing, ethics and leadership.

Galvin emphasized that both education and business have expectation levels that are too low. He indicated that our nation must raise its sights to compete successfully in world markets.

In opening remarks, Dr. Donald Klusendorf, superintendent of Grant High School who is president of the consortium designed to foster business and industry participation in education, called for a greater spirit of teamwork in the education process. "We're all teachers," he exclaimed.

The organization started as a career advisory committee in 1978, becoming a career guidance consortium in 1982. The BIEC was incorporated in 1985. Corporate membership is $300. Individual dues are $25.

$7,000 paid by Avon to sue past supervisor

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

After spending $7,000 to in an attempt to recover $12,700 from former Supv. Norman Geary, the Avon Twp. board is considering spending even more money to pursue the case further.

Board members were to meet later this week with Gurnee Atty. Rudy Magna to "get a clarification of some points in our lawsuit," said township Supv. Russell Christian. If the board decides to continue, a special meeting will be called to authorize such action. He said all of this could be done yet this week.

Christian said the township has spent approximately $7,000 on the Geary case. "That's more than I spent for legal fees during my 27-1/2 years in township office," Geary said.

Sought is $12,700 Geary received as a township trustee during part of his 26 years as township supervisor. The years involved are 1978 through April 1989.

Christian was swept into office along with a new township board and township clerk in 1989 on the heels of the charges. The new supervisor and board began legal action immediately upon taking office to recover the money they say Geary illegally received as a township trustee.

Geary said the precedent for the dual salary was established by his predecessor, Supv. Maurice "Pink" Murrie. Geary said a legal opinion rendered by former township Atty. Joseph Sikes determined the dual salaries were legal.

Rodney "Jim" Rockenbach, a trustee while Geary was in office who continues to serve in that capacity, approved the dual salaries

A McHenry County judge ruled twice the township was entitled to reimbursement. Last month an appeals court in Elgin rejected the lower court decisions and sent the case back to Circuit Court for review.

Geary claims this is a victory. He said the Lake County State's Atty.'s office previously rendered a decision his dual salary was legal. A second opinion is expected later this month from Asst. State's Atty. Helen Rosenberg. It will be one of her last official duties before becoming a new Lake County judge.

"We have five salaries on the township board; a supervisor and four trustees," township Trustee William Donahue said. "When Geary was here we had six salaries, five of them for trustees."

"We were advised this was not legal. That is why the case was pursued. We wanted to recover some of this money for the township," Christian said previously.

Raymond Lacroix of Grayslake, who is running for the County Board in Dist. 11, asked the township board at a Jan. 13 meeting to explain its legal vendetta against Geary. "It looks like the current Avon board is suing the old township board," he said. "What it means is the Avon taxpayers are suing themselves and paying for it."

Challenge extra $200 pay for Avon clerk

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Avon Twp. Clerk Kathleen Lennon is being paid an extra $200 per month to also serve as office manager, but fellow members of the township board say it is legal.

Defending the $200 per month extra compensation approved by the new township board immediately upon taking office in May 1989 is Supv. Russell Christian.

"The township clerk's job is part time," he and Lennon explained. Prior to the 1989 election the salary for that office was raised to $14,000 annually.

Lennon said the duties of the clerk's office require about one hour per day. But she puts in a full day, she said. For this the township board authorized extra compensation.

Christian said this is entirely legal, according to opinions from township

Atty. Rudy Magna and George Miller of the Township Officials of Illinois Assn.

By paying the additional $200 per month the clerk's office has been able to eliminate two full-time persons. Christian said. "That has saved us at least $35,000. I think the $200 per month is money well spent."

"I am here to represent the taxpayers," Lennon said. "I am real careful about how the township's money is spent."

Geary claims her salary is no more legal or illegal than the one he also received for simultaneously serving as township trustee while he was also township supervisor from 1978 until being defeated in April, 1989. The township is trying to recover $12,700 Geary received as a trustee during that time.

"State law is very clear when it comes to Lennon's salary," Geary said. "It cannot be raised during her term of office. Yet, it was approved at the first meeting in May after she was elected township clerk.

"This is in clear violation of state law," Geary said. "If my salary was sup-

'This is in clear violation of state law. If my salary was supposedly illegal, this is even worse.'

—Norman Geary, former Supv. Avon Township Board

posedly illegal, this is even worse."

In his own case, Geary said, the dual salaries were approved in advance of each term.

Geary said the township clerk's salary was raised to $14,000 annually in anticipation of it becoming full time. Current-day township officials said it was raised because then clerk Virginia Harrington was reaching age 70 and could earn more money while also collecting Social Security benefits.

Geary further explained the opinion on the clerk's salary by the executive director of the Township Officials of Illinois Association is the same person who ruled years ago on his dual salaries as township trustee and supervisor. "The man (George Miller) is no attorney, but he hands down opinions," Geary said.

Raymond Lacroix of Grayslake, a candidate for the County Board in Dist. 11, attended the Jan. 13 township meeting to ask that a legal opinion be sought on Lennon's salary.

"I believe you will find your previous action in violation of state law," Lacroix said. "I say, cease and desist now. Mr. Christian, you are violating the public trust of the voters of Avon Twp." With that he called upon Christian to resign as supervisor.

"I'm sorry, but I won't do that for at least 2-1/2 years," Christian said of the expiration of his term at that time.

Easing Your Tax Burden

Tax season is here—help is on the way

by DICK WINTRODE

While on the job I may be an IRS employee, but I'm also a taxpayer like you. Every year I go through the same process as you do to prepare my tax return and get it in on time. Each week, throughout the filing season, I will try to provide you with helpful hints about things that I do personally to make filing my return as easy as possible.

At the same time, I will share with you the many ways in which we can be of service to you and how we are working hard to reduce the burden on you, our customers. I'll also help you to avoid tax problems, but should they occur, we'll talk about how we can solve them quickly.

Now that the filing season is officially here with the coming of the new year, it is time to start thinking seriously about taxes. Even if you are not ready to sit down and actually start filling out your forms, I'd like to offer a few tips on things you can do now.

The most important thing to do is keep good records of everything that may effect your income tax. Every year when I go home for Christmas, I help my mother go over her records, so she will know if any estimated taxes are due in January. She has a simple method of getting records together, she puts them in an envelope throughout the year.

While she uses a single large envelope into which she tosses medical bills, drug store bills, real estate tax bills, dividends and interest statements, etc., my personal system is a bit more elaborate. I use a different envelope for every category. Whether you use one envelope or many, the result is the same. If you keep receipts throughout the year, everything you need is in a single, easy to find location when its time to sit down and start filling in your tax forms yourself, or provide the necessary information to your professional tax preparer.

While the law requires you to keep tax records for at least three years, you should keep some records longer. Especially important are records concerning your home. Did you postpone the capital gains on a previous sale? Have you added a room or landscaped your property? It is also a good idea to keep records of business and investment property, stocks, bonds, etc., which may be subject to capital gains when sold at a later date. Your older records will provide you with your cost basis on which to figure any taxable gain.

Let me add a few other suggestions of records to drop in your tax file throughout the year, starting each January:

- Your monthly statements from banks, savings & loans, brokerages, etc. They will include information on interest earned, dividends, mortgage payments, and other tax items;

- A list of your employers during the year to be sure you get a Form W-2, "Wage and Tax Statement," from each before filing your tax return. I wouldn't want you to omit an income source on your return, which could result in expensive penalty and interest charges;

- Your pay stubs to reconstruct your income and tax withholding. You may have problems getting your W-2 earnings statement early next year. Incidentally, if you leave an employer during the year, ask for a W-2 form so you will be sure to have it;

- Any records of tax withheld during the year from such additional income sources as gambling winnings or backup withholding amounts taken from your savings accounts;

One final thought, if you do banking for a child or a dependent adult, be sure his or her social security number appears first on the account, or else their interest income may show on your tax account.

Next week I'll discuss some things you can do now to get ready to file your return and what to do if you have not received your tax form.

Antioch not alone in proposing larger police facilities

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

While Antioch Planner Bob Silhan looks for alternatives to enlarging the Police Dept. for $100,000, nearby villages Lake Villa and Lindenhurst also are talking about expanding their police headquarters.

"Based on the amount of personnel we have, the expansion of the Village in area and population, the police department has to grow," said Lindenhurst Police Chief Richard Jablonski.

Lake Villa Police Chief John Debevic complained that his department, which is on the other side of a building shared with the village hall, offers no privacy.

"Ninety percent of the time my guys will take the prisoners up to Antioch because of the conditions here," Debevic said.

But Antioch's plans appear to be the greatest in scope and expense, and for good reason. The Police Dept. is one of four calling centers in Lake County for the enhanced 911 emergency phone system, approved by voters in 1990.

In order for the Antioch Police Dept. to have the new 911 equipment installed, the facility must meet the standards dictated by the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC).

These standards include more space, security measures and fire codes. After studying the Police Dept. building design, the Village staff concluded it would be most cost-effective to expand on the present facility.

An addition that stretches out 8 feet and 24 feet from the present Police Dept.

building was proposed. The additional room would house two dispatchers instead of one and would give more room to records and records personnel.

Furthermore, dispatchers would not be required to deal with people who walk into the police station. Records personnel would be charged with that, leaving the dispatchers to concentrate on responding to telephone emergencies.

Village Administrator Tim Wells said the $100,000 cost for the proposed building addition, which includes a new console for the 911 system, would be split with the agencies Antioch dispatches for.

The Village would pay for 55 percent of the addition and console, while the other 45 percent would be divided between the Antioch Fire Dept. and Rescue Squad, the Lake Villa Police and Fire Depts. and Rescue Squad and the Lindenhurst Police Dept.

The Village Board, however, is not satisfied that the building addition is the best answer. Staff was instructed to look at other options and bring them back to the next regular Board meeting.

Police Chief Chuck Miller said earlier this week he doesn't know what options staff will be able to come up with.

"One dispatcher just makes it in there," Miller said. "To cram two in there just isn't going to make it."

Additionally, Miller said, the ICC is very strict about its requirements for the 911 enhanced system. He said even with the building addition proposal, ICC is letting Antioch "slide" on a few requirements.

Meanwhile, talk at the other villages is that conference, or interrogation, rooms are a necessity.

At Lake Villa, that means building on to the present village hall facility, where the police department has been housed since the 1950s.

The Lake Villa village board was scheduled to discuss the addition on Wednesday. One trustee wanted to bring in an architect so the new design will meet disabled accessibility codes.

Lindenhurst will likely tear out a few walls of the village hall to increase room, Jablonski said. Discussion on this matter will begin in the spring, when the village board meets to look at next year's budget.

Antioch Police Dept. dispatcher Jennifer Naughton works alone in cramped quarters. When the 911-enhanced phone system is installed, two dispatchers will be required to be on duty. The Village is looking to expand the Police Dept. building in response. — photo by Doug Dusik

Centennial parade features floats on long route to park

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Centennial Committee continues to work on making this summer's parade a memorable kick-off to a memorable hundred-year celebration.

Ninety-nine units have been invited. Included are locals and out-of-towners.

To accommodate participants, the parade route is longer than usual. It starts at Antioch Community High School and heads north on Main St., as usual, but it continues to North Ave.

From North Ave., the parade moves onto Anita St., then ends at Centennial Park.

"It's going to be so much larger and we're going to draw so many more people," said Linda Pedersen, Centennial Committee chairwoman.

It starts at 10:30 a.m. on June 27.

"It's going to be a kickoff of the celebration," Pedersen said. "It will get everybody into the spirit."

Antioch has eliminated its July 4 parade this year and replaced it with the centennial parade.

Pedersen said the parade was scheduled early enough so that out of town units could march in Antioch and in any July 4 parade they normally do.

This year, Antioch is asking parade participants to join the procession in a float. "Normally we don't have those," Pedersen said.

Among those entrants that have agreed to appear at the centennial parade with a float:

- AARP
- Chamber of Commerce
- Antioch Free Church
- Girl Scouts
- Historical Society
- Jacyces
- Junior Woman's Club
- Antioch Library
- Lion's Club
- Moose Lodge
- Little League, football and swimming teams

- Rotary
- Antioch Twp.
- True Value
- Village of Antioch
- Woman's Club
- Commonwealth Edison
- Ducks Unlimited
- Faith Evangelical Church
- First Chicago
- First National Bank of Antioch
- Lakes Area Barber Shop
- McDonald's
- Thelen Sand & Gravel
- Triangle Bait Shop

Those are just the floats. The parade promises even more excitement with entries from the Jesse White Tumblers, Dist. 34 and ACHS marching bands, Rescue Squad, Fire Dept., VFW color guard, 30 clowns from Clown Alley and Brookfield Zoo Clydesdales.

You can also look forward to seeing local celebrities like the mayor and Village trustees, Miss Antioch and Little Miss Antioch.

For music lovers, six bands from the Midwest Drum & Bugle Corps and Shannon Rover Irish Pipe Band are scheduled.

The Antioch Centennial Committee meets twice a month and is always looking for volunteers. Call 395-1384 for information.

Wierschem explained.

On the more optimistic side, he said categorical cuts could give the district more financial leeway.

"It just depends," Wierschem said. "I could afford to lose the bucks in the transportation fund because that's my healthiest fund."

Cuts to the general education fund will hurt, he said. Other categorical cuts that will smart include driver's education and gifted and special education.

The governor's proposal would save the state $350 million.

Although school officials have asked that cuts be made to specific areas, State School Supt. C. Robert Leininger said that all schools are likely to see a reduction in state aid.

General state aid constitutes about half of education's $3.4 billion budget, Leininger has said.

The Illinois Federation of Teachers is protesting the budget cuts proposal, saying it will increase the disparity between wealthy and poor school districts while reducing the current budget even further below last year's budget.

"Gov. Edgar's cuts, if enacted, would threaten equipment and textbook purchases, physical plant improvements, faculty and staff, and the myriad needs of Illinois schools," the IFA contended.

"The spillover effects of further reductions will be to quash the ability of school districts to bring desperately needed programs to fruition around the state."

St. Peter's blood drive

St. Peter's Catholic Church, 557 W. Lake St., plans a blood drive on Saturday, Jan. 25. The drive will be held in the gym from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Blood drive chairperson Ellen Ipsen asks eligible donors to stop in and donate.

LifeSource joins President George Bush and the American Assn. of Blood Banks in celebrating National Volunteer Blood Donor Month. LifeSource has joined with blood banks throughout the country to promote the 1992 donor month theme "Blood give a little so someone can live."

The Lizard sports a basketball review

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
Close game

Bear with me as I attempt to do a basketball write up. As you read on, please realize that I know very little about the sport. However, even a novice such as myself quickly realized the Grass Lake School A-Team and the Emmons A-Team were closely matched.

The Grass Lake Braves and the Emmons Raiders were neck-and-neck throughout the first quarter. By the end of the second quarter, Grass Lake had secured a comfortable lead (or so I thought). This lead held throughout the third quarter and it was so comfortable that one of Grass Lake's star players mistakenly put the ball into Emmon's basket an advanced their score by two points.

As the fourth quarter began, Emmons edged their way up and the lead became smaller and smaller, until Emmons eventually moved ahead 50-48. With only one second on the clock, Walter Martens (GLS) shot the basket that tied the score 50-50 making it necessary to go into two minutes of overtime.

The crowd went wild with cheers, whistles, feet stomping, etc. With 15 seconds remaining on the clock Colin Dent (GLS) shot the basket that put Grass Lake back into the lead. The countdown began, "five-four-three-two-one-zero." The lead held, and Grass Lake was victorious with a final score of 52-50. Congratulations are in order for both teams on an exciting game, well-played, and for the excellent sportsmanship both teams exhibited.

Comradeship

Some people find it compelling to do everything their friends do, and such is the case with Deanna Olenick and Shelley Brausam (Miss Antioch). Deanna and Shelley have been classmates and friends since kindergarten at Grass Lake School.

I recently reminded all of you that our Miss Antioch was doing fine after her recent surgery. Well, her friend, Deanna, must have gotten jealous about all of the TLC Shelley received because she too had to have the same surgery.

However, Deanna entered Lake Forest Hospital instead of Condell. After a slight set back, Deanna is doing fine, and a get well wish from all of us will finalize her recovery. Girls, I think you are carrying togetherness a little too far. Next time try a night out on the town, certainly that would be a lot more enjoyable than sharing surgery experiences. Glad to have you both up and about ready to tackle the new year with vim and vigor.

District 34

The Antioch Community Consolidated Schools of Dist. 34 approved a resolution to hold a referendum on March 17. The money will be used to build additions to three of the four schools that make up Dist. 34 AUGS, W.C. Petty School, and Oakland Elementary School.

If the referendum is approved by voters in March, the additions should be completed by the fall of 1993.

Special birthday

Lordy, Lordy, guess who is finally 40? Linda Boerman reached the ripe old age of 40 on Dec. 17. This special occasion was welcomed in by a surprise party beautifully executed and hosted by Marie Brausam.

A group of her family and friends helped to make the occasion extra special, her two sisters, Penney and

Lisa, her daughter, Beth Ann, and her friends, Renate Wlezien, Selena Plattner, Debi Mozal, Cathy Dunfrund, Phyllis Wagner, Donna Schmehl, Darlene Olenick, Lauri Teaters, Dee Samson, Tricia Olenick, Cindy Marquart and yours truly. I must say here and now, one more time—Marie, I loved the carpet!

ACHS sports

The girl's cross country team finished their season with a dual meet record of 8-1. They tied for second place in the conference. The boy's cross country team finished with record of 7-2. They finished third place in the conference.

The varsity volleyball team finished the season with a record of 20-17 and a third place finish in the conference. The varsity football team completed a great season with a 6-3 record. The varsity soccer program finished with a 14-9 record. They placed second in the North Suburban Conference. Good going, athletes, keep up the good

Paschke receives Scouting's highest award

In an Eagle Court of Honor conducted at Moose Loge 525, Brian F. Paschke was awarded the rank of Eagle, the 24th from Antioch's Troop 92 since 1962.

Paschke joined Cub Scouts in 1981, advanced to Webelos Scout in 1983 and joined Troop 92 in 1984. He earned 24 merit badges and eight skill awards, held 12 leadership positions and earned 18 awards for special events.

Paschke is the son of Alice and William Paschke. He lives in Antioch with his mother and brothers, Bill and Bob; he is a freshman in the aviation program at Lewis University.

After Scoutmaster Emeritus Bernie Dost read the Challenge and Charge to the Eagle, State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis presented the Eagle Award. In her congratulatory remarks, Geo-Karis praised Paschke's achievements and many skills. In his Eagle Response, Paschke extended his warmest thanks individually to the many persons and organizations that assisted him during his 10 years in scouting.

Scoutmaster Dick Weston congratulated and praised Paschke during the Scoutmaster's Minute. Following the Retirement of Colors, the Women's Auxiliary of Troop 92 served a dinner that was capped off by a slice of decorated Eagle cake.

Troop 92 is sponsored by Moose Lodge 525. Weekly meetings are held at the Antioch Scout House on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. For information, contact Scoutmaster Dick Weston at (708)356-9269.

EPA orders Chain to restore wetlands

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 5 has issued a civil administrative order to the Chain-O-Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency to restore three acres of wetlands on the Fox River in McHenry County.

The wetlands are on a peninsula near Fox River Valley Gardens. EPA alleges that the waterway management agency buried portions of the peninsula under dredged material in violation of federal and state dredging permits issued in 1990. The complaint orders the agency to immediately start controlling erosion into the Fox River and restoring the wetlands.

"It is especially disappointing when a public agency, charged with protecting a natural resource, disregards environmental regulations and harms the very water body it was created to manage," said Dale S. Bryson, regional director of the Water Division. "Public agencies will be held to the same standard as private corporations in meeting the goals of the Clean Water Act."

32nd annual ice fishing derby slated Feb. 8 & 9

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

It will take more than the recent warm weather to postpone the 32nd annual Chain O' Lakes Ice Fishin' Derby & Winter Festival.

Scheduled for Feb. 8 and 9 at the main headquarters on Channel Lake at Wasz's Resort and three satellites, Frank & Char's Resort on Lake Marie, Kempf's Resort on Petite Lake and Harrison's Resort on Pistakee Lake, sponsors are saying the show will go on.

"As long as they're on the Chain O' Lakes, there's no problem," says Frank Pecararo, president of the Northern Illinois Conservation Club (NICC).

Sponsored by the NICC, this two-day fund-raiser is more of a family outing than a tournament, Pecararo says.

"It's a real good thing for the kids," he says. "Through the ice they can catch the same size fish that a grownup can."

And even if they — or any adults, for that matter — don't catch the biggest fish, they can still collect an hourly prize. Hourly fishing prizes will be awarded for the largest and the smallest fish.

In addition, a $100 cash prize will be handed out for the largest fish in each of the 10 species categories caught during the derby. A $25 prize will be awarded for the smallest fish in each category.

Fishing hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Feb. 8 and 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Feb. 9.

But even if you don't like to fish, you can still walk away with one of 19 prizes totalling $7,000 in the derby's raffle. Tickets are $2 each or three for $5 and are available at Chain O' Lakes bait shops and resorts.

The top prize is a trip for two to Reno, Nev. The trip includes four days and three nights at a hotel.

Other raffle prizes include outboard motors, gift certificates, a cross-country ski package, trolling motors, a $500 U.S. savings bond, a microwave oven and a gas weed trimmer.

Winning tickets will be drawn on the afternoon of Feb. 9.

And if that's not enough, the NICC will hold its "famous" auction at Channel Lake along with plenty of family games and hay rides for the kids.

It's no wonder the Chain O' Lakes Ice Fishin' Derby & Winter Festival drew 10,000 people last year.

Proceeds were used to continue conservation efforts in the area, the biggest of which was saving Spring Grove Fish Hatchery. Working with other sports-oriented clubs and private citizens, 40,000 postcards were sent to Illinois legislators.

It appears efforts were not in vain, NICC reports. The new name of the hatchery is said to be the Spring Grove Fisheries Resource Center.

So it's going to take more than an unusually warm winter to cancel this event.

"It will go on whether we have ice or not," Pecararo says.

"It's 32 years we've been holding this derby and usually it's been successful for us," says NICC Secretary Phyllis Lindquist. "We're thinking positively."

Adding that the ice-fishing portion of the weekend event would not be held if conditions were unsafe, Lindquist points out that, "We do have ice and they are ice-fishing."

"We'll have ice," Pecararo insists. "I'm right on Lake Marie and I've got guys out there fishing. It's a little open on the shoreline, but there isn't anything at all dangerous."

Biting right now, he says, are catfish, bluegill, stripers, walleye, some musky, bullhead, largemouth bass and perch.

Bring the most delicate pole you have, Pecararo advises. A short and delicate pole will get close to the hole. A five-gallon bucket will serve nicely as a seat. And bait should consist of maggots, spikes, wax worms, wigglers and mayfly larvae.

From what he's seen on Lake Marie, yellow bass are striking the best at this point, Pecararo says. He's seeing ice-fishermen bring them out by the bucketful.

Over the last two to three years, the Chain O' Lakes Ice Fishin' Derby & Winter Festival has been utilizing catch-and-release methods. Fishermen can release their catch and still receive credit. In addition, bonus prizes are awarded for releasing live game fish.

The derby receives much of its support from the local businesses in the Chain O' Lakes area.

Raffle prizes and hourly cash prizes are donated by merchants. Then there are the main sponsors: Rivella Beverage Co., distributors of Budweiser beer; Coca-Cola Bottling Co.; State Bank of Antioch; and Robinson Wholesale Inc., distributors of live bait and fishing tackle.

Now if organizers could count on the support of Mother Nature.

"The ice situation can go either way," Lindquist says. "We have about three to five inches of ice on each lake. A couple of cold days and we could be in good shape. A couple of warm days and we could go the other way."

For information on parking at the 32nd annual Chain O' Lakes Ice Fishin' Derby & Winter Festival, call any of the following: Harrison's Resort (815) 385-0323, Frank & Char's Resort (708) 395-2036, Kempf's Resort (708) 395-2484 or Wasz's Resort, the derby's headquarters, (708) 395-9839.

The recent warm weather may be making ice-fishing precarious but the 32nd Chain O' Lakes Ice Fishin' Derby & Winter Festival, with its family games and raffles, will go on. — photo by Doug Dusik

DANGERPROBE

Counterclockwise from above: I search the horizon for the best place to launch my attack on the Great Lakes during the first Greg Miller Memorial Polar Bear Swim and Transcendental Meditation Thinkfest at Lake Michigan; I fight the freezing waters; I make a hasty retreat; and my sandcastle after the big kids kicked it over and made me cry. — Photos by Eugene Gabry

Couldn't bear the water

My first impressions:

"Jjjjuudddiitthhh Cccrrriissstt — mmmoottthheerrr ooofff
Gggaaarrfffiieellldd — sssoonnn ooofff aaa bbbeceaaacchhcccoom-mmbbbeerrr — iitt'ss cccooollldd!"

And that's before I got into the water.

It seems for some people it's a New Year's Day tradition to find the closest and coldest body of water and go for a brief swim.

I know this because when I was growing up in Hogslop, Ind., every Jan. 2 the local paper would run a photo of a group called the Polar Bear Club. Members of this loosely knit club — many of them there for their first and last meeting — would strip to their swimsuits and jump into the icy waters of the nearby river. Thus the obligatory news photo always featured flabby, balding guys with skin the color of bathroom porcelain and nothing better to do than camouflage grimaces with contrived smiles as they invited Mr. Heart Disease to take them away on the first day of the new year. The sight of these aging adventure-seekers brought to mind an alternative to using those baseball bats on baby seals.

It's with absolutely no pride I can say I'm now part of the aforementioned species. Although I'm not balding yet, I'm flabby and aging. Hey, that's two out of three. It's like my good friend Badlands Dupree once said: "Those of us who can no longer sip from the Fountain of Youth must lean at the bar and say crude things about young women we don't even know."

Anyway, I decided to make Jan. 10, 1992 the date for the first annual Greg Miller Memorial Polar Bear Swim and Transcendental Meditation Thinkfest at Lake Michigan.

Oh sure, I'd seen the newspaper photos and the television accounts of the Jan. 1 swimmers from Chicago to Milwaukee, but I'm a maverick, a trend-setter. A lot of people don't realize it, but I originated the phrase, "Is that for here or to go?"

Actually, I drove up to Milwaukee on New Year's Day with the hope of participating in that annual cold-weather belly-flop binge, but lo and behold, half of the city was at the lakefront. It was the biggest thing for these cheese dips since the Packers won two games in a row. But then, you should see the look of wonderment on their faces when you start talking about escalators.

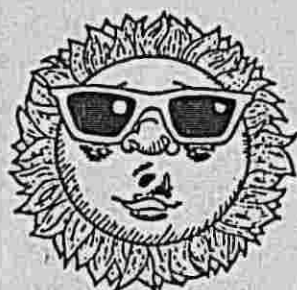

Coincidentally enough, Jan. 10 is my first wife's birthday. Or was it my second wife? How time melts the memory. But, it really doesn't matter. The important thing here is there have been women hard up enough to marry me. It could be my great looks (A lot of people have said I'm a cross between Jerry Mathers, George Reeves and a car wreck). It could be my money (I once had a credit card). In the end, however, we all know women are after just one thing: Tupperware.

Before I could brave the brisk waters of Lake Michigan I needed someone to preserve for posterity my making a posterior out of myself. Everyone in the office said the thought of seeing me in a swimsuit was repugnant. Taking pictures of such a sight could be construed in a court of law as the production of obscene materials, they added.

Undaunted, I contacted Gene Gabry, an up-and-coming area photographer. Gene said he'd be glad to take photos of me in my bathing suit. Now before any of you get the wrong idea, Gene is a married man with — oh, I don't know — 15 or 16 (Continued on page 12)

Wisdom of waiting

Over the years a growing number of voters have come to loathe the practice of taxing bodies, particularly school boards, of pounding away at unsuccessful tax increase referenda until the opposition wears down and the proposition passes. The practice has persisted because it works—to a point. Possibly that point has been reached.

To their credit, members of the Antioch High School board aren't going to test the "keep pounding" theory and bounce back in March with the $32 million new construction plan that was defeated two months ago. What the board is going to do is reassess needs and study new options. So taxpayers in the district that includes Lake Villa and Lindenhurst can breathe a little easier for the time being.

One thing that's going to happen is that two feeder districts, Antioch Elementary and Lake Villa Elementary, are going to the voters in March to ask for more taxes for building programs. If the two propositions are successful, the victories probably will drive a nail in the coffin of the high school's plan to convert the existing building into a cooperative junior high school.

If the two elementary district building measures fail, however, the cooperative junior high program will not only be kept alive, but the coop proposal actually will be strengthened.

That's the beauty of a "breather." The mood of voters and times change. High school officials, indeed, will have an opportunity to reassess needs and study new options. There is wisdom in waiting.

Mob paint undeserved

Shades of the Mafia!

Lake County's reputation has been tarnished again.

An informant testifying in a Chicago federal mob probe has said top sheriff's department officials in Cook and Lake counties could be bribed. The Fox Lake police chief can be "reached" probes were told. This supposedly happened in 1989.

That was Clinton Grinnell's first full one as sheriff. At that time his top aide, Willie Smith, was wearing a recorder while working with the FBI. His target was former Lake County Building Inspector Rocci Pelletiere, who wanted a no-raid guarantee for about 10 taverns with video poker machines.

Pelletiere is gone.

Smith is still here. So is Grinnell. Luckily they are. Law enforcement in Lake County has never been in better hands.

Lake County does not need or deserve a throwback to the days of Sheriff Pat Clavey.

As for the Chicago mobster's testimony about "reaching" the police chief in Fox Lake to open a gambling operation there, that's hard to believe. "I'm sick about this," said Chief Ron Nagel, who has held that job for 2-1/2 years.

So is anyone who knows that Fox Lake of today is unlike the one of the 1920s, the 1930s or, even, a decade ago.

Unfortunately, some smalltime mobster is trying to make the big time with lies, innuendos and blanket statements.

Anyone who knows the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. or the Fox Lake Police Dept. knows better.

Grinnell and Nagel are above reproach.

Unfortunately, reputations of two outstanding departments have been tarnished. Lake County doesn't deserve this.

Traffic lights or PR?

Which is more important: traffic signals or free street lights?

It's an important one for drivers, taxpayers, politicians on the County Board and the Division of Transportation.

Taxpayers in Lake County will pay $38,000 this year for 53 street lights located within the corporate limits of municipalities. These are on county roads that were annexed over the years along with adjoining property.

The county continued picking up the cost because the money was there, no one complained and it was good PR.

There always has been a policy of having municipalities pay for street lights on county roads within their boundaries.

But it was ignored. That was yesterday. Today's tough budget times don't leave any extra money.

The Division of Transportation says it needs new traffic signals around the county. The $36,000 in the 1992 budget for that purpose doesn't stretch very far.

Martin Buehler, the county highway boss who makes the final decision on such things as street lights and traffic signals, wants to turn off the free street lights.

He thinks traffic signals that protect life and limb are more important.

Some County Board members don't agree. Election time is coming up. They want the free street lights "grandfathered."

Municipalities aren't exactly happy either. Enforcement of the policy means they will have to dig a little deeper into their already bare pockets.

So what's the answer? Will it be business as usual? Or will the issue of safety dominate the political one?

Viewpoint

Developers eye new methods to open doors

by BILL SCHROEDER

One day after a developer urged a group of village trustees to enter into a "public-private partnership" so he can turn a former ski hill into a housing complex, wire services carried the story of how New York Mayor David Dinkins is urging city government to take steps to strengthen the private economy.

Does this mean that Nick Trkla is on the cutting edge of a new strategy by trying to forge a cooperative effort with Fox Lake trustees to mutually benefit from the development of Holiday Park? The spot used to be a popular picnicking and water sports center in the summer and a skiing facility in the winter?

Are municipal council chambers going to become hotbeds of investment banking? Could be. After all, a lot of unexpected things happened in 1991. It wouldn't be so strange if the officialdom became the bellwether of economic recovery.

One big difference would be that the deals would be made out in the open before the scrutiny of the press and interested citizens rather than behind the scenes where promoters long have enticed public officials to "advance the cause of progress."

So maybe Trkla, a resident of Lake Forest with impressive credentials in urban planning, real estate development and implementation of Illinois tax increment fund (TIF) financing statutes represents the new breed who openly invite local government to "share the wealth."

Mayor Dinkins mainly is talking about turning back public controlled property to the private sector, promoting public works and unsmiling business from governmental red tape. Trkla is suggesting mutual "back scratching."

Fox Lake officials want a hotel and convention center to enhance their economy. Trkla and his associates want zoning and TIF approval that only the village council can provide. In effect, he's saying, "Let's make a deal."

Trkla, who has a penchant for preppy blue blazers and developer jargon where ground is never excavated but "sculpted," feels he's in a good bargaining position. While normal channels have not provided new hotels in Vernon Hills and Lake Zurich, Trkla insists that "northwest Lake County is not hotel overbuilt."

So he's dangling the hotel for zoning and infrastructure financing.

That trade may or may not help the local Fox Lake economy, but it sure would brighten the day for Mr. Trkla and people like him in the developing business.

GREAT YEAR—Barry L. MacLean, president of Mundelein-based MacLean-Fogg, Inc., is receiving well deserved plaudits for his term as chairman of the Illinois Manufacturers' Assn., completed a few weeks ago. The Libertyville resident probably will be remembered most for pushing the IMA's goal of Illinois education reform, but he also directed big changes for the influential business organization, a new association president, new offices, new staff personnel and raising funds for IMA's lobbying efforts for greater education accountability in the public school system. The IMA's "business/education partnership" concept is a landmark.

Backs AIDs testing

Editor:

If Magic Johnson can get so much publicity, why can't we help the family of the late Kimberly Bergalis? I would like to see help for Congressman William Dannemeyer (R-Calif.) in trying to pass a bill for mandatory AIDs testing for professionals. I feel even one more step should be taken all men, women and children to be tested once a year; also for venereal disease. In the long run there would be less sick and lower insurance premiums.

How to save taxes

Editor:

The state constantly is crying poor mouth, cutting welfare and school programs. Then they buy swamp land in Antioch. What's going on? If the state needs money so badly, why don't they cut the staff of IDOC, IEPA and IDOT? They are, for the most part, lazy political cronies.

Moore lacks integrity

Editor:

In Lakeland's Opinion column "Politically Speaking" by Joe Soulek, of Jan. 10, I am given credit for removing Lake County Forest Preserve President and soon to be former County Board member, Andrea Moore from the March primary ballot.

I disagree. I did not file the objection.

She violated the election laws. Moore, in her haste to protect her political career, bungled her filing using old petitions thus displaying her ineptness.

Election laws and procedures are there to protect the integrity of the election process and assure every candidate fair and equal access to the ballot. Moore obviously could not follow the same set of election procedures as the other 68 County Board candidates.

Deputy State's Atty. Helen Rosenberg, County Clerk Linda Hess and Circuit Court Clerk Sally Coffelt, three outstanding Lake County women in politics, unanimously voted Moore off the ballot, not Jack Martin.

Moore's revelations at the Electoral Board hearing show not just her lack of competence but her lack of integrity.

Previously stating she would never run against people she "admired and respected" like State Reps. Bob Churchill or Virginia Frederick, Moore now says she must "re-evaluate" her hesitancy of running against incumbent Frederick.

MUSIC OF ANGELS

Believe it or not, Al Salvi is a familiar name in the musical world. No, not the Lake Zurich native now trying to become the first state representative in the new 52nd Dist.

I'm talking about harpist Alberto Salvi. For years, prior to his death in 1989, the native of Italy played the harp for midnight mass at St. Francis de Sales Church in Lake Zurich.

Called the greatest harpist in the world, he played with the Chicago Symphony for years, was seen on WGN-TV in the late '50s and early '60s, and was on CBS-TV. He played for presidents, kings and in theaters around the world.

His Chicago-based Salvi Harp Co. was synonymous with musical superiority. Now owned by the Lyon & Healy Co., the harp division is run by one of Alberto's sons, Victor.

But the Salvi boys don't have a musical bone in their bodies. None of them play a musical instrument.

Which is as good a reason as any for Alberto's grandson, Al Salvi, to run for a job in Springfield rather than try to get one with the Chicago Symphony.

THE $1 WINNER

Some of the 13,000 members of the Lake County Farm Bureau may unwittingly contribute to a candidate in the 1992 elections.

The new dues statement of $37 includes a $1 contribution to the bureau's political fund. Those who don't wish to donate can deduct the buck, says a small attached notice.

Questioning the legality of this fund is Raymond Lacroix of Grayslake. He is a candidate for the County Board in Dist. 11, which happens to include the Farm Bureau offices. The fund is not registered with the state Elections Board as a political action committee, he says.

Incidentally, one of the other candidates in this race is Mr. Farm Bureau. He is none other than executive director Richard Raftis. Who do you think will get all those $1 contributions?

Oh yes, who are all of the 13,000 members? Lake County seems to have more farmers than farms.

About 12,500 are policyholders with the Country Companies. To get low, farm-type rates they must belong to the Farm Bureau.

CRANE WINS ONE

Touche! That's what Congressman Phil Crane (R-Mount Prospect) has done to his opponent in the new 8th Congressional District race.

Palatine Republican Gary Skoien is trying keep Crane off the ballot for not telling people where he really lives. His voting address is a new home on the Fox River in McHenry. His old address is the Mt. Prospect home of an aide. But where Crane spends most of his time, Skoien says, is a home in Arlington, Va., near Washington, D.C.

Wherever Crane lives, he was around long enough last weekend to pick up two important endorsements. Both the township Republican organizations in Schaumburg and Palatine endorsed his re-election for a 12th term.

"The magnitude of the Palatine vote was even more shocking than Schumburg's unanimous vote," a Crane press release said. "Skoien, who lives in Palatine and is a Palatine Republican precinct captain, pleaded for the township's support before the vote, stating: 'This is extremely important to me.' In the end, it was rumored Skoien received less than a handful of votes."

Together, the two townships account for more than 40 percent of the population of the new district.

Skoien says the handwriting was on the wall before the vote. In Cook County, he says, township party chairmen are elected. They, in turn, hand pick the committeemen. Don Totten and Bernie Peterson, the two GOP leaders, have been in the Crane camp since 1969.

A conservative, Crane's press release identifies him as "The taxpayers' best friend."

GREEN SCARE

After trying to scare other candidates out of the race for state representative in the new 51st District, Peter Fitzgerald has done an about face.

The well-heeled Inverness attorney with offices in the Loop will instead run for the state senate in a reshaped Cook County 27th Dist.

This happened after turning out fancy green and white press releases in green press kits with a four-color brochure for his state rep run. Fitzgerald spent thousands of dollars on the aborted campaign. His opponents were, literally, green with envy. There is reportedly more green where that came from to boost his senate bid.

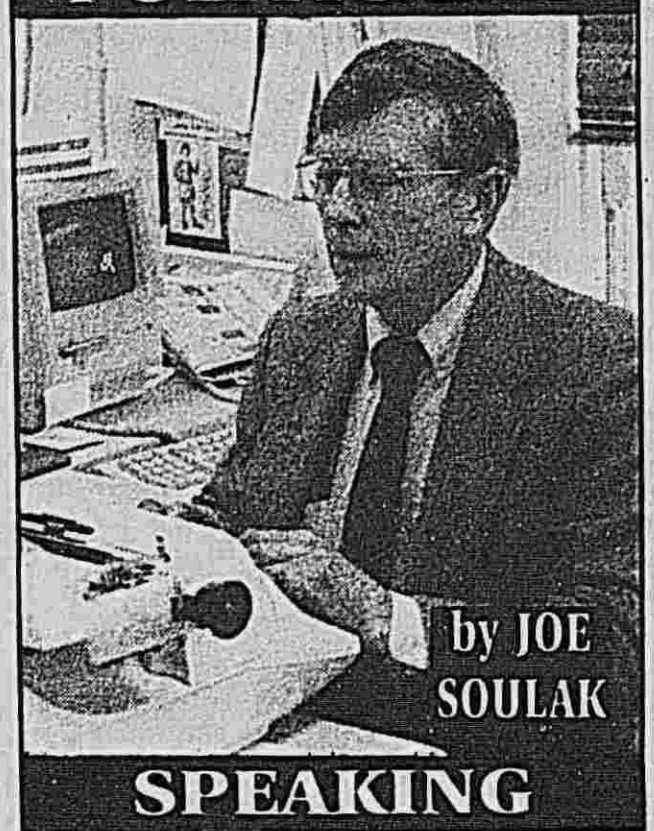

This leaves former Buffalo Grove Mayor Verna Clayton and County Board member Roberta "Bobbie" O'Reilly to duke it out. Clayton and O'Reilly, incidentally, served together on the Buffalo Grove village board in where Clayton was mayor and O'Reilly a trustee.

NO CONTEST

It was no contest in the first political showdown of 1992. Last Friday night two candidates for state representative in the new 52nd Dist. had receptions in Wauconda.

Atty. Al Salvi had a $10 per head horses doeuvres only affair at Mer's restaurant. About 170 showed up. More than two-thirds were village officials or Republican precinct committeemen. The MC had trouble with the name of the Round Lake Beach mayor, Carl Schrimpf. So he introduced him as "Mayor Smirnoff."

Nancy Masterson had a similar function a few blocks away at the American Legion hall. The draw was Nancy talking about the issues and a free lunch. The parking lot had 16 cars at the height of the evening. Some of those belonged to bar patrons, others to the campaign entourage.

OVERHEARD/SEEN

LAKE ZURICH—Bruce Hansen hasn't changed. The candidate for the County Board in Dist. 19 filed objections to the 1992 election petitions of incumbent Robert Grever. It happens every other year at election time. One tries to knock the other off the ballot on a technicality. Two years ago a similar Hansen objection kept Grever from becoming a precinct committeeman. This time, though, Grever prevailed. HIGHLAND PARK—It looks like a high stakes race for state rep. in the new 60th Dist. in far southeast Lake County. Deloris Axelrod, one of the candidates, has $100,000 in her primary campaign budget. There may be more. She's still to hold a fund raiser or get signatures until the boundary lines of the southeast Lake County district are finalized.

countries are flooding our store shelves while our factories and workers are standing idle.

The problem is becoming worse, like a snow ball rolling down hill.

So what can we do to put our factories humming again and our workers back to work. When shopping, if you can't find American products, ask to speak with the store manager. Express your concern to the manager. Check the labels. You may save a few pennies by buying imports now but the end result is, when our factories and workers are standing idle and our economy has slumped into a depression and we have a high unemployment rate, most people won't have the money to buy any products.

What can one person do? Plenty. Everyone belongs to a church or an organization. Have them tell their friends why they should buy American products. Stand up and be counted. Spread the story. To do anything less makes us equally guilty of not supporting American factories and American workers.

Sex offense changes

Editor:

A decision of the Illinois Supreme Court changed the standard of review in sex offense cases when sufficiency of evidence is challenged on appeal. It is now the same as the standard for all other criminal cases.

Previously, a victim's evidence had to be clear and convincing or substantially corroborated. This was originally seen as a safeguard for the accused in the light of a perceived ease of rape charges and difficulty of defense. It has traditionally applied to all charges of sex offense. Some recent appellate court decisions have refused to apply it, finding it sexist, arbitrary and inconsistent with the reasonable doubts standard applying to testimony of victims of other crimes. The court ruled that the test should be the standard given in People v Collins (106 Ill. 2d 237 (1985)) that "criminal convictions are not to be overturned on review unless the evidence is so improbable or unsatisfactory that it creates a reasonable doubt of the defendant's guilt." This is to apply to all criminal cases.

Finally a step toward equity for women!

Seek alternative funding

Editor:

I do not accept the premise that public schools are a community resource that need to be paid for by the whole community. I believe one should pay for what one uses, kind of like the water bill.

The situation that exists now is unacceptable to me. Taxes are charged to property owners in an amount according to assessed valuation of the property, which works out for me that I must pay four times more in taxes than my neighbors across the road from me. When one of those places is sold and yet another family moves here with children, they can put those kids in school and only "contribute" one-fourth of what I must pay towards educating their children.

My great-grandfather built my home 76 years ago. I moved out of it two years ago, one of the reasons being I could not negotiate the mortgage (done to pay off relatives) and the ever-soaring real estate taxes. In all the years I lived there and paid household bills, nothing went up anything near as fast as the property tax, which always had been quite significant. I am not the only one I know who had to move out of their home because of high taxes.

There are alternative ways to finance schools other than raising property taxes. I'd rather see an increase in income tax and sales taxes in order to spread the burden more evenly throughout society. I also would like to see parents assume more of the responsibility. As long as we refuse to come up with any alternatives, don't be disappointed when school referendums go down in defeat. It's not that I disagree about the needs, I object to the method of how it's financed.

kids. There may not be that many, they just move fast (It's the same principal used in the movies when the hopelessly outnumbered side sets up extra rifles and fires them intermittently to create the illusion of having more people).

On the appointed day, Gene met me at my palatial bachelor pad (containing an eclectic array of things discarded by the destitute) in beautiful downtown Waukegan. When the gunfire died down, we ran to his van and headed for Illinois State Beach Park.

If you really hate crowds, January is the perfect time to spend a day at the beach. Gene and I grilled some brats, caught some rays, went for a long walk holding hands, skimmed stones off each other's foreheads — it was so romantic.

Ah, but so much for fantasy.

In reality, I got down to my swim togs and asked Gene to take his photos from flattering angles. With great tact, Gene said, "You don't have any, lardbutt."

Sobbing (I'm so sensitive), I dashed into the lake with every intention of leaving this vale of tears forever. I ran about 40 yards out and dived forward. Unfortunately, it's true: dung does float, and my death wish wasn't granted.

When I came up for air, I paused to wax poetic. With the usual apologies, this time to Samuel Taylor Coleridge:

*Water, water everywhere,
And all of my appendages did shrink.
Water, water everywhere,
and boy, did I need a drink.*

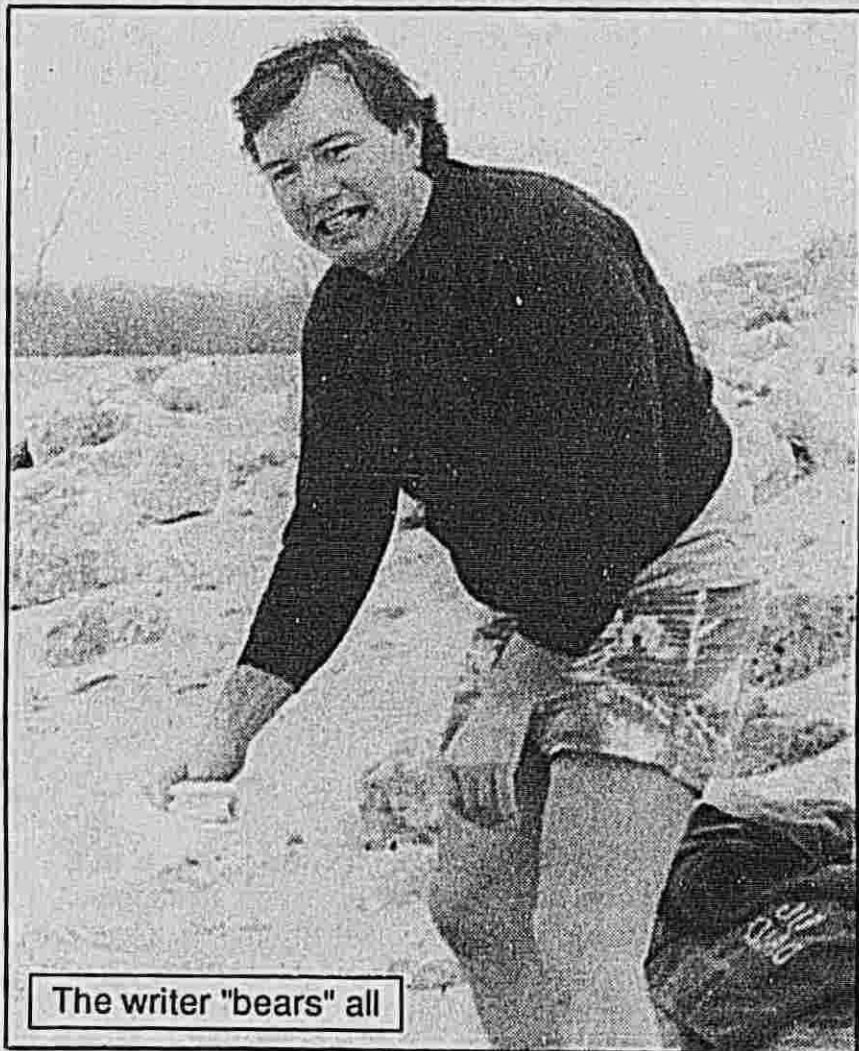

That was enough of a pause, and I ran screaming from the grasp of the frigid waters. When I reached the shore, I couldn't feel any of my five major appendages, and Gene wouldn't.

And so, the adventure ended as we bid a fond farewell to this classic event. Gene said the next time I want a photo, I should buy a wallet.

Speaking of cold, these two guys had spent most of a cold, rainy evening in one tavern but decided to catch last call at another drinking establishment. The only problem was that a sure-fire shortcut to the other bar ran through the heart of a cemetery. When they got to the edge of the cemetery, one guy said, "Goin' through a graveyard at night really gives me the willies — I'm gonna run right through — I'll meet you on the other side." He'd jogged about 30 yards when he ran right into an open grave. Meanwhile, the second guy had started weaving through the tombstones, and as he approached the open grave, his fallen friend appealed from six feet below, "Man, is it cold down here — I'm freezin'." The more prudent — but no less plastered — of the pair walked up to the open grave and looked down into the darkness. Again came the plea from below: "Geez, it's cold down here." Gathering his remaining faculties, the sot above the sod replied, "Well, no wonder, you went kicked all your dirt off."

If you've read this far, you're invited to join me next year. The actual date may be moved to sometime between Memorial Day and Labor Day, or the location may be shifted to Belize. Or both.

Handling with care: polystyrene collection

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

The solid waste crisis is one of the biggest and most obvious environmental challenges the country faces.

As many as two-thirds fewer landfills exist today than in 1979, and of those still operating, one-third are expected to close next year. Despite recycling efforts, there is more garbage produced than ever before. More than 1,400 pounds of trash each year is produced for every man, woman and child in America.

Clearly no one can afford to ignore the problem any longer. Not even a principal contributor to the solid waste crisis: polystyrene foam.

Once manufactured with fully halogenated chlorofluorocarbons, which when released into the air break down the earth's ozone layer, the processing changed as severe restrictions were placed on manufacturers by state governments.

Still, the product is not biodegradable. But it is recyclable. Two area centers are collecting the stuff and reusing it.

Parcel Handlers, Ltd. at Route 45 and Hawley Road in Mundelein accepts unwanted polystyrene foam and so does Main 'n' More at 912 E. Rollins Road in Round Lake Beach. Both also accept cardboard, particularly boxes that can be used for shipping.

The materials must be clean or they will not be accepted. They are not redeemable for cash at either collection center. The service is an adjunct offering for both businesses.

"It's not really cost-effective to handle it, but we feel like we needed to do something environmentally sound," said Rick Boucher, owner of Parcel Handlers, Ltd. "We're all part of this world and we have to do what little bit we can. Then we may be a little bit better off. I think everybody should feel that way," he said. Boucher has been taking in the material for three months.

Bob Damato, owner of Mail 'n' More, has been collecting polystyrene foam for about a year in an effort to reduce his overhead. "Somebody walked in here one day with a box of it and said will you take this from me, I don't want to throw it in my garbage can, so I did and I used it to pack something," he said.

Damato gives loose-fill to senior citizens groups and scout packs who use them for crafts as well as mailings. Customers, however, pay $1 per cubic foot for the stuff.

There have not been more than six times when someone has brought polystyrene foam to Mail n More, and only about 10 people have brought it to Boucher's place. For the most part, Boucher only reuses the loose-fill for which, if he collected enough, he can return to a supplier for credit. What he purchases from Free Flow, based in California, is "100 percent recycled polystyrene. All they do is melt it down again and fill it with air," Boucher said. The product is Green Cross certified. Damato does not send for meltdown the polystyrene he collects.

Boucher will go through about one 14 cubic foot bag of loose-fill per day or 35 per month. Though he would like to see more people bring him the material, he said he does not foresee the drop-off point becoming very popular.

"I'm willing to do what things are environmentally sound with business," Boucher said.

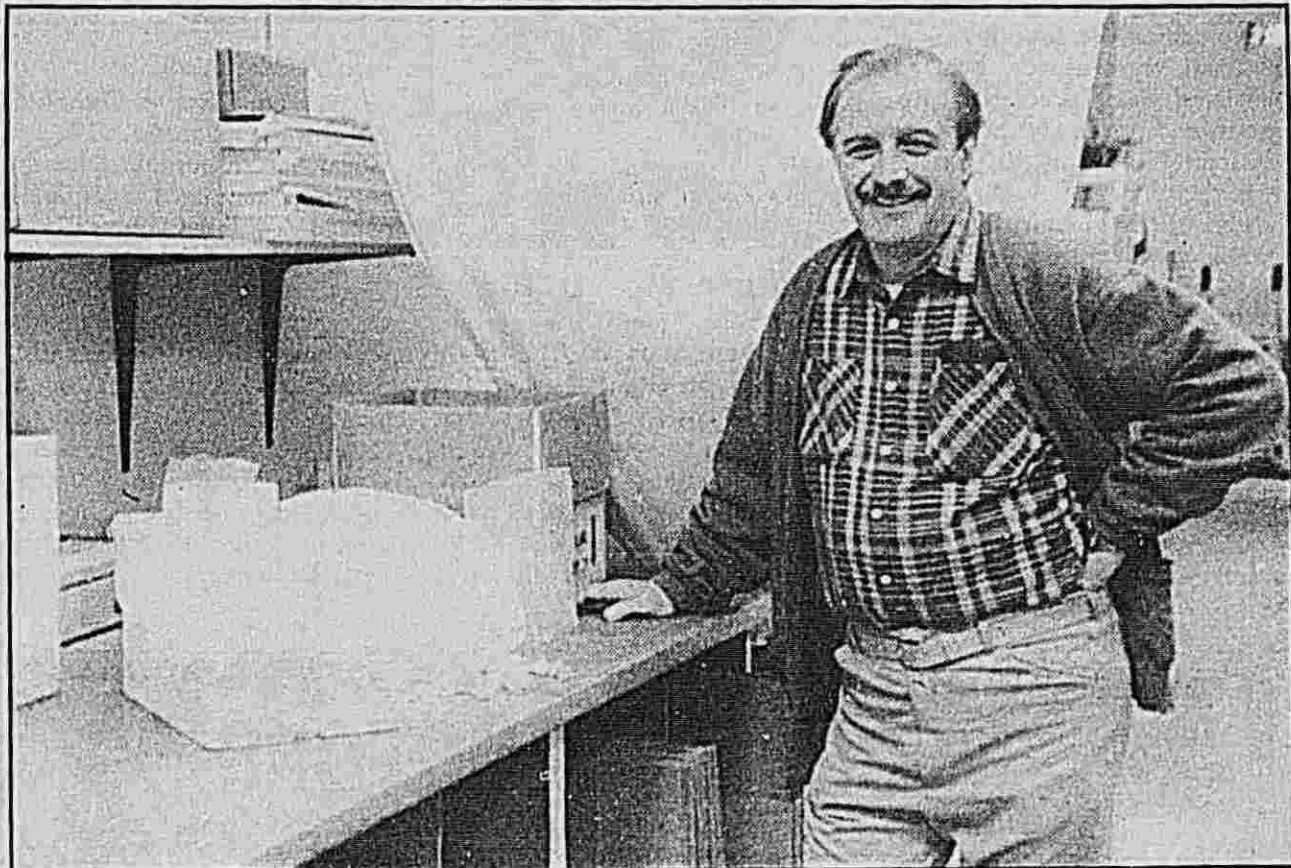

Though a loose-fill is made from vegetable matter that dissolves in water, both Damato and Boucher said they could not trust the product. "There have been some chemical problems with the 'popcorn' that is soluble and we have been advised not to use that because it melts once it hits water," Damato said. "It could get into the earth itself and we don't know what that problem is yet."

As a safety precaution, Boucher doesn't use it because he doubts a parcel packed with it is insurable.

Both Boucher and Damato said there is no reason why loose-fill should ever be thrown away. "It's one of the most reusable materials made and that's what we're trying to demonstrate" by collecting the product," Boucher said.

The program is a national effort launched by the Plastic Loose-Fill Producers Council which consists of major manufacturers, converters and distributors of loose-fill. Member companies include The Dow Chemical Company, Free-Flow Packaging Corporation, Inter-Pac Rapac and Storopack.

For a list of plastic loose-fill collection centers around the country, call 1-800-828-2214.

Rick Boucher, owner of Parcel Handlers, Ltd. in Mundelein, began collecting polystyrene foam packing materials three months ago to do his part to prolong the life of landfills. "It's not biodegradable, but if we keep using them, it's not a problem," he said. Some states have made use of the product illegal. "With this, we're hoping to avoid the same fate in Illinois," he said.— Photo by Debra A. Schwartz

Financial survival in 1992 and beyond

by NICK J. BROWN

This is a recession that won't quit. The American workers and executives' expectations are that things are not getting better. How can an individual do better financially this year and beyond?

Get Out of Debt

Number 1: Start getting out of debt as soon as possible. Start now!

The most common type of debt is bank charge card balances. Current average interest rate is 19.6 percent which is non-deductible on tax returns. Reduce this today. Is a second large screen TV or a salad shooter really a necessity? Won't the one-year-old skis make do for another year?

Budget

Budget: Reduced bonus, small if any salary increases, reduced expense reimbursement allowances, terminated pension plans. What is the best defense for a predictable financial future?

The answer is to make a budget. List expected income without any embellishment. State basic expenses that are a must for the family's security. Then list those items that the family has gotten used to during the spending 1980s. Eliminate those items that keep the budget from breaking even with income and expenses.

Expectations

Expectations: Lower the family's expectations for vacations, gifts, private clubs, clothing, automobiles, luxury goods, and anything else that does not contribute to the family's security and well being now and in the future.

Children

Children: Beloved offspring can be the point guards in ruining the budget. TV and friends scream at them to consume all the necessities of teenage life. Be prepared to take some heat. Stand your ground if you want to keep your financial head above water.

College Education

College educations: The private college with a national reputation will not necessarily give children a better education than a low-cost public institution or community college. Look at the "public ivies" and others that are renowned as good values in education and career preparation.

Don't choose name colleges to the detriment of the rest of the family's financial security.

Your Job

Job—bosses and career: Now is the time to make one's job more secure. Do everything possible to become invaluable to both boss and company. There will be more layoffs and mergers. Keep learning more about your job and the company.

This Way to wealth

Do everything you can. Stop finding problems with the position, the salary, co-workers, and the company. Stop complaining and become the supervisor's or company's most valuable asset.

Good things will happen. The most immediate in this difficult economy is that when lay offs or downsizing is considered, a valued employee might not get the prize.

Co-workers: This is the time for team players and nurturing of co-workers—not lone wolves and eager beavers. Become the most valued partner to co-workers.

Salary: Job and salary are the single most important asset to the family. Check to see if the company has a salary continuation program or long-term disability insurance. If not, get comparative quotes for individual policies that can be kept throughout one's working life.

Home Mortgage

Renegotiate home mortgage: Interest rates on home mortgages have dropped to fifteen-year lows. Contact the present mortgage company to see if it will rewrite the mortgage loan and at the same time submit applications to several other mortgage companies.

Usually a two-point difference between present loan and current rates will make it profitable to get a new loan depending on how long you will stay in the home. Divide monthly savings on mortgage payments into the points and expenses that this change will cost to see how long the payback period will be.

Pay Off Loans

Pay off auto loans and credit cards: Credit card balances are probably costing anywhere from 14 to 21 percent in interest rates. Get a home equity loan at current low rates and pay off these high cost credit card balances. Then, cut up the credit cards.

SWALCO completes consulting team to determine work plan

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

Moving forward on schedule, the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County will complete its consultant project team Jan. 30 by formally hiring the Chicago-based engineering firm of Camp, Dresser McKee.

The company will carry out the engineering and design work in the SWALCO plan for a specified period of time. Stated is an integrated system which includes energy recovery from incineration, burying garbage in a landfill, recycling, yard waste composting and cutting down the amount of waste produced by each household. The plan, which cost $500,000 to create, is designed to handle the more than 2,100 tons of garbage produced daily by the county. Funding was provided by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, the Lake County Board and member municipalities.

Camp, Dresser and McKee will also provide technical assistance during the implementation phase of the agency's plan.

The company was chosen because it estimated the lowest number of hours to complete the task of developing a detailed work plan and guiding the agency in placing priorities. Four firms sought the job.

"Their expertise will help the agency decide what will be done within the next two years. There is so much to be done that it's a little hard to know where to start. It's going to take some time and discussion to determine what tasks they will do," said Jeanne Becker, who designed the Lake County plan.

Though a contract has not been finalized, expected is a short term renewable agreement rather than retaining the firm for a longer period of time.

Completing the circle with Becker and Camp, Dresser and McKee is the law firm of Winston and Strong of Washington, D.C.

Recycling coordinator Mark Loughmiller said he hopes the engineering firm will help him determine the capacity processors of recyclable materials have to accommodate the waste stream.

"The solid waste plan emphasizes maximum recycling and in order to determine what other facilities you might need, you need a good handle on how much is actually going into the waste stream so you don't over-design for capacity," he said.

The firm is credited with designing the multi-million dollar DuPage County Recycling Facility as well as landfills and waste-to-energy plants.

Wheelchair Bulls to host third annual tournament

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Leighton Kidder and the rest of the Chicago Wheelchair Bulls will provide the thrills and inspiration when they host their third annual Tournament for kids in Addison this coming weekend.

Kidder, the former president of the Island Lake Lions, said the annual tournament will help disabled children adapt as he did after an accident seven years ago.

"It's something for the kids to look up to," Kidder said. "It's good for the kids to help them rehabilitate themselves."

In addition to hosting three teams from Ohio, Michigan and Kansas, the Bulls will take the time to share a lunch and their basketball skills with the children, most of whom are under 14.

"You really see their eyes light up when they're with us," Kidder said. "They ask us for autographs and really enjoy the games. I hope it inspires them."

"It helps for the brothers and sisters of the kids to see too. Most people are really amazed to see what we can do."

Kidder suffered a spinal-cord injury while working as a lineman for Illinois Bell. His disability got him kicked upstairs to central office technician in Arlington Hts., and he joined the Bulls to augment his rehabilitation.

"I always liked sports, but I never found the time for them," Kidder said. "It really helped my rehabilitation by getting involved with other people who are disabled. Once I got involved, it didn't take long to get competitive."

"It's really worked to my advantage. I've learned new skills with the wheelchair, and that's helped me in adapting to the outside world."

Kidder said learning wheelchair basketball skills takes care of one of the prerequisites to the game. It develops the arm strength needed to play.

The Wheelchair Bulls, 12 men and one woman, are 12-2 so far this season. In their most recent Wauconda appearance, the Bulls topped the St. Louis Rolling Rams.

The tourney schedule includes games at 2 and 6 p.m. Saturday and noon Sunday.

The tournament will be played at the Northeast DuPage Special Recreation Association's gym in Centennial Park, 1776 W. Centennial Place in Addison.

In a way, an airplane building project started in 1916 by a 16-year-old farm boy was completed 73 years later by his grandson, one of the youngest captains flying the "Friendly Skies" for United Airlines.

That's the way retired Postmaster Joe Molitor, 91, and his grandson, Capt. Gerald C. "Jerry" Molitor Jr., 34, look at their shared interest in aviation.

The younger Molitor, who earned his fourth stripe last year after being with United for 13 years, researched his grandfather's World War I era flirtation with flying and wrote an article for the national publication of the aerobatics organization of which he is president of Chicago 1 Chapter.

"I was amazed at what my grandfather did. He had never even seen an airplane," remarked Molitor, who resides in McHenry with his wife, Kathy, and their three children.

As a hobby, the airlines captain started building a competition aircraft in his basement in 1987. He finished the Christer Eagle two years later and now flies the trim two-seater at meets around the nation.

The two Molitors spent part of the holidays comparing notes about airplane building.

The senior Molitor, who combined the postmastership of Round Lake with owning and operating a Chevrolet dealership during his working days, described the thrill of taking the controls of his plane the first time for a taxi trip around the pasture on the family farm on Molitor Rd. off Rte. 12 near Volo.

"Were you scared, Gramps?"

"You bet I was. I sort of 'hopped' the plane along. Every time I got going and started to feel the lift, I eased back on the throttle. I must have been going about 30 mph," the aviation pioneer recalled.

Jerry marveled at his grandfather's ingenuity and daring. "That was something."

Joe demurred. "Aw, not really. I wasn't even a pilot. You were a pilot when you flew your own plane."

Family responsibilities and a nation in recession, terminated Joe Molitor's second go around with powered flight in 1931, when an airfield was established on Rte. 134 in what is now Round Lake Park and an adventuresome group of young men headed by Father Schmitz, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, organized a flying club. Members owned a five seater Curtis monoplane in partnership.

The family flying genes skipped a generation and showed up in Jerry, who soloed at Campbell Field at age 13. Jerry has an extensive background in corporate aviation besides his career in commercial aviation.—by BILL SCHROEDER one of our earliest homebuilt aircraft builders. What I find particularly incredible is that no one in the area had ever seen an airplane, let alone build one. In fact, even though automobiles were becoming quite popular, they still were not common place to this community, where horse and buggy was still the primary mode of transportation. The name of this boy was Joseph Molitor and he happens to be my grandfather.

For as long as I can remember, my grandfather has always been the inquisitive type. Even today, he is always asking questions and passing on ideas and knowledge. He was always that way as a child, so I'm told, and he frequently could be found disassembling things to see what made them tick. The invention of the airplane was only 13 years old and aviation was still in its earliest stages, being cultivated in the minds of our nations most motivated an intuitive individuals. My Grandfather was one of those individuals and if you could meet him you would agree.

Grandpa Joe was fascinated, as were thousands of people at that time, with the airplane. The idea of having a machine that would lift itself and a pilot gracefully into the air was most appealing to him and one day in early 1916, he took the first step in making it a reality. For $1 he purchased the plans to the Marionette Monoplane out of a publication of the times that was the equivalent Popular Science of today.

After receiving and reviewing the plans, the necessary spruce needed was ordered from the Heath Aeroframe Co. in Chicago. He modified the farm tool shed for the project and when parts started showing up, he began working by lantern light (no electricity on the farm) at night after school and chores. By today's standards, building an airplane such as the Marionette would be a fairly straight forward, however, time consuming, project. But imagine doing it in the barn by lantern and with no power tool like your Makita cordless, table saws, grinders, pneumatic tools and so many other neat little gadgets that make life easy when it comes to building things.

Little things were a big deal. For example, the ribs, made of spruce, had to curve to the shape of the engineered airfoil. To do this Gramps had to make a jig the shape of the airfoil, tack the spruce to the jig and then go by horse and buggy to a neighboring farmer who had a steam thrasher. There he steam set the curvature into the wood. All metal brackets for joints, cable supports, reinforcements, etc. were hand made. The wings and tail feathers were covered with muslin cloth and then given a few coats of shellac. Pitch and yaw control was accomplished by traditional rudder and elevator and roll control was achieved by wing warping.

The powerplant was a 12 h.p. motorcycle engine and the prop, also purchased from the Heath Aeroframe Co., was 5 ft. in diameter and bolted right on to the crankshaft. The fuel tank was made for him by the gentleman who ran the McHenry Hardware Store, whom he really got to know better during the project. He made a cylinder shape tank with a pointed tip, which was pretty fancy for the time. The trip to the hardware store was a 14 mile round trip in a horse drawn buggy. Bicycle wheels were used for the landing area.

The Monoplane was such a specter of attention, that people came from all over the Midwest to see the project. Like most (Continued on page 23)

Nightburners will light up loft at O'Trainna's

November 23 was the night the blues came to Wauconda. It was the night Wauconda-based Kevin Purcell and the Nightburners lit up the loft at O'Trainna's and started a Saturday night tradition of live music on the loft.

Purcell will return to O'Trainna's this Saturday to perform his contemporary brand of blues after a busy schedule of Chicagoland performances. The Nightburners popularity has soared since the band won the Benson & Hedges Blues Talent Search held last October in Chicago.

Starting off the live music schedule with the popular band turned out to be a boon for O'Trainna's. "Everybody wants to play here now because Kevin Purcell played here," said Tom Traina, co-owner along with Dick O'Hara.

Traina decided to start booking bands to keep the crowds coming to the the pizza restaurant/bar after 9:30 p.m. A pretty smart marketing move considering that live music venues are few and far between in the county.

Traina says blues bands are by far the most popular with the O'Trainna's crowd. He tried some hard rock and alternative bands that didn't hit the right note with the patrons. O'Trainna's plans to stick to blues, the ever-popular reggae and "acoustic mellow rock."

Saturday is no longer the only night to catch live music at O'Trainna's.

Kevin Purcell and the Nightburners appear in the loft Saturday, Jan. 18 at O'Trainna's, 110 S. Main St., Wauconda.

Wednesday nights now feature the music of guitar duo Craig Kenning and Mike McCoy (also of Wauconda).

O'Trainna's is located at 110 S. Main St. in Wauconda. Call 526-4499.

Las Vegas For The Beginner

by JIM WARNKEN,
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

If you're looking for gambling advice, try that guy in the turtle-neck sweater hawking his videos on late night T.V. I'm a "one roll of quarters per trip" type of bettor. But if you've never been to Las Vegas and want to know the best way to get there, where to stay and what to do, maybe I can help.

If you can keep the casino visits to a limit, Las Vegas is probably the best short vacation value around.

For about what you would pay to stay at a Days Inn in Chicago, you can get a luxury hotel right on the famous "Las Vegas Strip".

You'll also have no problem finding a Prime Rib dinner for about $7.00. Breakfast for $.99? Only in Las Vegas!

Your best value is to book a three or four day charter package which includes your airfare, hotel and taxes. The entire package is quite often less than what airfare alone would cost if booked directly with the airlines.

The least expensive four day charters leave on Monday and return on Thursday. The best prices in three day packages leave on Friday and return on Monday. There are also Thursday-Monday and Thursday-Sunday charters that are also good values.

Don't believe "unbelievable" low advertised prices. Always ask if taxes are included which could add up to 15% to your price. Some companies go as far as to subtract from their advertised price, the value of discount coupons for food and shows, which are included free with most Vegas Packages anyway.

Las Vegas has two main hotel districts known as "Downtown" and "The Strip". I would suggest the Strip for your first visit. My choice for the best hotel in the budget category is the Riviera, mostly for its excellent location. For the ultimate in luxury, The Mirage is where it's at. If you're taking the kids, try Circus or the new Excalibur.

For that $.99 breakfast try the Palace Station. The best $7.00 Prime Rib is at the Rio Suites just off the strip.

'JFK' powerful pondering

Why does the number of unanswered questions concerning the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, in full view of thousands of people, still grow by leaps and bounds almost 30 years later?

This is the main premise proposed by Director Oliver Stone's latest epic, "J.F.K."

Director Stone bases the script he also wrote on Texas Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation and subsequent bringing to trial of a "conspirator" in the assassination.

Some critics have lambasted Mr. Stone for using Mr. Garrison and his theories, but despite the use of the investigation spearheaded by what some consider to have been a loose cannon, Mr. Stone has made a powerful film.

Though he uses a montage of "uncovered" information, including much that has come to the fore since Mr. Garrison lost his trial, this excellent film delves into a question unanswered for much too long a time. Who killed the President of the United States that day in Dallas. There are few people left that believe that Lee Harvey Oswald alone committed this dastardly deed.

In fact the CIA has admitted that Mr. Garrison's conspirator was a member of the CIA, a fact that they would make no comment on during the trial.

It took the United States Senate 16 years to decide that President Kennedy's death was a conspiracy.

The film's direction, photography and cast are all top-notch. Any actual fact discrepancies are negated when the picture clearly points out that an American President was killed and not enough was done by the government and the media to get the real story to the people who were very remiss in demanding the lifting of the thin veil of the Warren Commission's weak investigation that was draped over the body of a dead American President.

Kevin Costner turns in an admirable performance as Mr. Garrison, as unassuming as a stick of dynamite and Joe Pesci is great as one of the alleged conspirators. Both are being mentioned in the same breath as Academy Award, as is Mr. Stone's epic.

Tommy Lee Jones does an exceptional job of playing Clay Shaw, Garrison's target.

There are fast cameo performances by Kevin Bacon, Ed Asner, and that odd couple, Jack Lemmon and Walter Mathau.

Kevin Costner

Although much of the questions asked in "J.F.K." have been asked before, seeing them all clumped together in a film a couple of hours long, points out the need for the American people to know the real truth as never before.

This one takes a five out of five star rating. Don't miss it!—by GLORIA DAVIS

Mime begins Stage Two children's series

Lake County's own local Stage Two Theatre Company begins their "Super Saturdays" children series program, Jan. 18 with "Instant Mime."

The performance features mime Karen Hoyer who uses movement and dance to illustrate moments of life. "Mime takes the body of the performer and the imagination of the audience," Hoyer said. "In "Instant Mime," everything comes out of a suitcase. All the different objects, characters and situations come from the movements and the imagination of the audience." According to Hoyer a great deal of audience participation is used in her show which she feels appeals to children of all ages. "Everyone enjoys mime," she said. "There are complex situations with irony for adults and slapstick type comedy that children enjoy."

Hoyer has been performing her soloist act since 1983 throughout the midwest and is slated for a performance in Mexico later this year.

She will present two shows at Stage Two, Jan. 18. Show times are 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Admission is $3 per person.

Stage Two's Saturday Morning Children Series will continue every other Saturday through March 28 with different performances each time. The theatre is located at 12 N. Sheridan Road in Waukegan. Free parking is available in the city lot off Sheridan Road between Washington Street and Madison Avenue in Waukegan. The theater's entrance is marked with a large banner visible from the parking area.—by RHONDA VINZANT

Your Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Watch that possessive side as you battle the green-eyed monster. Talks late midweek relieve much of the stress. Reach out for another later in the week when your instincts are to return to the cocoon. Don't push too hard — you're only in first gear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The old bullish charm works wonders all week long. Another confesses you light up their life. Enjoy being a light bulb, but stay on track. This weekend you're busy chatting, meeting new people, etc. If life isn't perfect now, you'll have many opportunities to make it so, soon enough.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Use the beginning of the week to mull over a situation. Unusual for you — saying little and absorbing another's point of view. Act on what you want midweek. Make the most of your best asset, YOU, as the week continues. You've got what it takes and what another wants.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're on a winning streak as the week begins. (Just think about what you want before you go after it.) Midweek, you're concerned with the ramifications of a current situation. Know, Moonchild, how changeable you are. Get set for a whopper of a weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Step into the limelight and strut your stuff. Another has their eye on you. You decide how this plays out midweek when YOU (and not THEY) get what you want. Take an early weekend and enjoy a special relationship. You're certainly perky. See what some vacation time does?

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Look beyond the obvious as the week begins — in other words, read between the lines. Another cares and lets you know it this weekend. You may have to start the dance, but forget leading. Midweek, court a boss' favor. Yes, right now, what you do counts.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) As the week begins, don't get into a frenzy over money, love or partnerships. You'll find the way. Plug into a favorite friend who really cares; together you come up with the most unusual solutions. Fantasy and imagination guide your week. Reality and responsibility rule the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Go with another's ideas even if you feel lukewarm about it. You go from tepid to hot by the week's end. Acknowledge a partner's great idea and intensified bonding. Make plans to take off on yet another weekend adventure. (With or without this person — it's all up to you.)

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Handle personal matters before midweek when the moon throws you into a new social whirl. (Business or personal or both — no one will tell). All weekend long, you intensify a tie (for love or money, who knows?). What is known is that you are nowhere to be found.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You may not make an appearance (or really be present) at work this week until midweek. No one questions it since you tear through work and demonstrate your capabilities. By the weekend, you're ready to get out there and do the jig.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Life may feel like drudgery as the week begins, but then that old Aquarian wildness appears and you're off later in the week. Wherever you are, there's fun and play. You pay for this romp on the wild side this weekend. You either have to work or recuperate.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Be sure to write down every call that comes in this week. You have a hard time separating work and pleasure, though by necessity you ground out at the end of the week. Return a couple of those phone calls before you make those weekend plans. Your plans could change if you don't!

Molidor

homebuilders, he was darn proud of his craft and he was always eager to answer questions, start it up and taxi around. You're probably wondering, what was it like to fly. You have to remember there were no flying lessons at the local Cessna dealer. This was Aeroplane 101 and Gramps was the student there was no professor. Gramps exhibited superior judgement for a boy of 16, because he didn't just hop in and gun it. He started slowly taxiing back and forth in the pasture gradually increasing speed each time until finally it actually started skipping short distances through the air. After several sessions of this sort, there were the inevitable breakdowns and repairs. He also came to the realization that there might be a little more to this flying business than jumping in and taking off after a few taxiing sessions. He started to develop a healthy fear of leaving mother earth. It was then he realized it might not be too bad of an idea to get an experienced pilot to fly the machine first. But, before this could be arranged, the barn he was storing it in for the winter burned to the ground and the Marionette Monoplane that my Grandfather built was lost.

My Grandfather came from a family of 12 kids. His father died in 1912, when he was 12 years old. Times were tough and the family had to bond together to make ends meet. But tough times and hard work didn't suppress his dreams. Gramps told me that the driving force leading to the construction of that airplane was his desire to fly across America to California to visit his older sister. In his own sort of way I guess he was telling me that you have to listen your dreams and act on them, because even for a 91-year-old, life is just too short.

Explore Italy at Salutos

Let your taste buds travel the length and breadth of Italy at Salutos Pizza and Pasta Restaurant in Gurnee.

Co-owners Bob Bode and Brian Scott just celebrated Salutos' one-year anniversary. Although the restaurant has been an instant success, Bode and Scott aren't resting on their laurels.

Salutos, a family restaurant with a casual atmosphere, will now be your guide for gastronomic trips to the various regions of Italy, including Tuscany, Rome, Naples and Sicily — to name just a few.

Each month, Salutos will feature dishes prepared in the style indigenous to a different region.

"People will be able to see how they prepare food in that region," Scott said. For Chef Jerry Reizner, it will be a labor of love.

"It's very interesting to see how dishes will change from region to region," Reizner explained.

An all-you-can eat lunch buffet has become a big favorite at Salutos every Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Each buffet includes pizza, hot entrees, soup, salad and garlic rolls for only $6.95.

Dishes come prepared in a variety of modes, including al forno (baked) and da fuoco (from the fire). One of Reizner's favorites is carne da fuoco, Steak Saluto — morsels of ham and select cheeses, pocketed into a tender breaded filet of beef and sauteed in a house tomato-wine sauce with mushrooms.

Salutos added some new items recently, including appetizers Salutos Sampler (spiedini, stuffed mushrooms and golden calzone) and Donduta Carciofi (diced artichoke hearts in a garlicky mozzarella and parmesan blend melted together to be dipped out onto toast croutons.)

Several new dinners have been added including Parmigiana Trio (veal, eggplant and chicken fried with cheese and special sauce) and Steak Saluto and Rotolo, Tortellini, Petti de Polla Alla Griglia (grilled, marinated chicken breast served with grilled vegetables), Chicken Primavera and Seafood Primavera. New in the sandwich lineup are the Grilled Chicken Sandwich and Mozzarella in Carozza (egg battered sandwiches of mozzarella and ham).

Pizza and seafood lovers should check out the newest pizza creation, Alpine Pizza (Alfredo sauce, shrimp, crab and spinach). Salutos famous Pizza in the Pan comes in 12-inch and 14-inch sizes. For lunch Salutos offers a special 8-inch pizza.

Average lunch prices range from $4.95 to $6.95, while dinner prices average $6.95 to $9.95. Salutos also features a complete bar, and impressive wine list. Party planners should consider Salutos house party plan package, carryout party plan, and catering.

Salutos is located at 7680 W. Grand Ave. Hours are Tuesdays through Thursdays, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Fridays and Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.; and Sundays, 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. For information, call (708) 356-6900.

An Area Guide to Home Design, Remodeling and Real Estate

With the advent of "Cocooning" and the current economic factors, families are spending more and more leisure time in their homes. Great strides in electronic entertainment have made it possible for people to bring "old standard fun and games" right into their own homes. Reflecting this trend people are incorporating electronic equipment into their decor and homey comfort into their furnishings.

Decorating

Q: My new home has a formal living room. I can finally use my grandmother's Chippendale furniture, but it looks very stark. What can I do?

A: What a wonderful way to start your decorating project! Antique pieces add charm to a room. The "stark" feeling of the room could be because there is so little upholstery and a lot of wood surfaces. You can "cozy up" the room by adding folds of flowing fabric to the room. Put a large round table covered with a fabric to complement the existing upholstery. Also have a well designed drapery treatment with lots of fabric, a few pillows wouldn't hurt either. Good Luck!

Q: I'm having a problem with pictures in my house. Where do I hang them? Is there a proper height, size for pictures?

A: Hang pictures at heights where they will be viewed best. In rooms where most activity is seated, display pictures lower. A favorite large painting will get lots of compliments when hung about 4'6" from the top of a sofa. In the foyer hang pictures at eye level. Display a favorite large picture by itself. When hung alone, the piece becomes a focal point for the room, and gets the attention it deserves. Group smaller pictures together rather than scattered on the walls, this eliminates empty lifeless space.

Q: What colors will be in our homes in the nineties?

A: Concern for our environment makes news everyday. Those nature-based colors that remind us of a fruitful earth, sky and sea, garden and forest. Yellows emerge in many shades, from wheat fields to the color of curry to soft browns. Greens will take two directions—toward sky blues and sea greens, and toward the forest floor—soft, mossy greens and light, bright fern greens. Blues will encompass a range of hues from the skies, from dark to light. They will have a tint of green, such as aquas, teals. Reds will go from deep, rich, burgundy to wine to the reds of the earth, the color of spice. Purple will surface as an important color. Nature's neutrals will include foam green, yellow, vanilla, pale peaches.

Q: I want to give our master bedroom a new look but don't know where to begin. Are there certain colors, patterns I should consider?

A: I think a master bedroom needs a special touch of elegance to make it feel different and special. Whether your personal style is country traditional, Eighteenth Century or sleek contemporary, give your bedroom the thought it deserves. One thing to bear in mind, there is another party to consider—consult your spouse. This room is an escape for both of you. When selecting fabrics, consider something with a shine for an elegant touch. Also utilize an abundance of material and in your treatment to provide extra luxury. For the bed use extra plump, quilted bedspread. For luxurious windows, create lots of layers. Use balloon shades, tied-back draperies or swags and cascades. No matter what drapery treatment you choose, add a valance to soften and finish the effect.

Q: I see many types of prints and want to use them in my decorating, but I'm not sure where to put them and what ones to use. Help!

A: Prints are more eye-catching than solids. They dramatize the look of window treatments, wall-coverings and furniture. However, too many prints in a room, particularly one that's filled with furniture, might make the room look cluttered and small. If you want to use more than one print, be sure to use patterns and hues that compliment each other. Choose one main pattern, usually a medium to large scale, and select smaller scaled co-ordinates. As a general rule, big bold prints will make objects appear more dominant. Small patterns can eliminate undesirable angles and increase the size of a room. Therefore, use bigger, bolder patterns on furnishings that you want to stand out. Use coordinating medium to small scaled prints on the walls or borders to avoid crowding the room.

Tip of the Month:

With the holiday decorations down and packed away, the house looks so bare try:

Invest in a spring bouquet (fresh or silk flowers), purchase a new picture for that sad corner, start a craft project, or try a spring floral wreath to replace the pine one on the front door.

Crafts, Etc.

... Randee Rian

Decorated T-shirts are very popular. Stores have beautifully embellished T-shirts for sale all year round. With a little thought and planning you too could make a personalized creation for that special someone or yourself.

Always wash the material to be printed first. Dry and ready it to be printed by placing folded paper in between the back and front to prevent sides from sticking together and 'paint-bleeding' onto the back.

On a separate piece of paper, sketch your design so you know exactly what goes where. Since the T-shirt will someday be washed, the paint you use should be permanent and one of the new fabric-painting varieties. Make your rough drawing very simple as you will find that simple drawings are easier to paint on the material.

Large, colorful and bold designs look better than small and detailed ones. Keep your drawing in the center of the T-shirt and not too near the neck, sides or bottom. Look for ideas for your drawings everywhere. Hearts and flowers are always popular. Be creative and try different colors, shading and multiples.

Materials made with cotton are best for painting. Some fabric paints will not work at all on nylon, rayon, etc. Check the labels before you buy the paint.

When you choose your colors, try to think of the pictures you may draw and which colors will be most useful. Black and bright colors look good on white and pale colored clothes but you may need white on black or darker colors. If you have only two or three colors, make sure they look nice together.

And finally, what I consider the most fun part, decorating and embellishing the painted T-shirt. Use sequins, jewels, laces and/or ribbons making sure to use washable glue for fabric decorating. Well, those are my helpful hints. Go to it and I hope you enjoy!

How to avoid the tragedy of fire

About every 45 seconds a fire breaks out in a home somewhere in the United States. Each year fire takes close to 7,500 lives and causes billions of dollars in property damage.

These grim statistics may not mean much, unless the fire is in your home or that of a loved one.

Here are some basic things you can do to help ensure the safety of your family:

- Eliminate potential fire hazards.
- Install and maintain smoke detectors.
- Develop and practice a family escape plan.
- Eliminating fire hazards
- Keep trash in covered containers and dispose of it regularly.
- Store paints, paint thinners and other flammable materials in their original containers, a way from fire sources.
- Clean work areas of paint, thinners and other flammable materials in their original containers, away from fire sources.
- Clean work areas of paint, sawdust or trash after every project.
- Don't overload circuits or use frayed electrical extension cords.
- Have all electrical wiring checked by a competent electrician periodically, to make sure it is not faulty.
- Use only fuses and circuit breakers which bear the label of Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) or some other recognized testing laboratory.

- Never run an extension cord under a rug or behind curtains.
- Do not let large amounts of trash accumulate, either indoors or outdoors. Clean attics, basements, closets and garages frequently.
- Installing smoke detectors
- Install at least one smoke detector in the hallway leading to the bedrooms.
- Consider installing additional smoke detectors, especially if your home has more than one level.
- Make sure smoke detectors are of a type approved by Underwriters' Laboratories or other recognized testing laboratory.

•If your detectors are battery operated, check the batteries often to make sure the unit is operational.

The ear-piercing alarm of the smoke detector may provide you and your family with the precious extra minutes that you need to escape, especially at night.

Developing a family escape plan

- Sketch the layout of each floor, including windows, doors and stairways. Make sure that every family member is familiar with the layout.
- Work out two escape route from each room and mark them clearly on the sketch.

- Hold frequent fire drills, including some at night, so everyone will know what to do and be able to act quickly in an emergency.

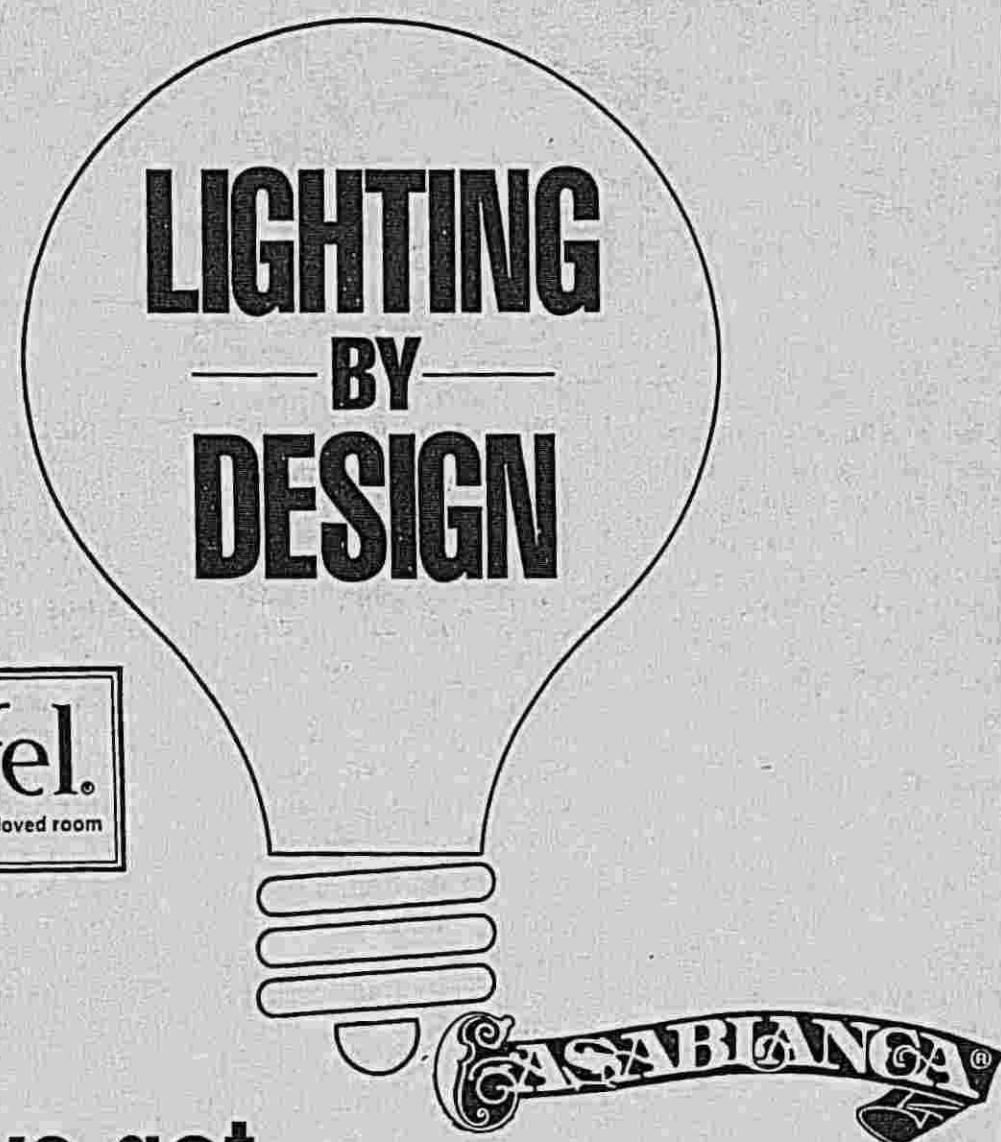

- Assign a member of the family to be responsible for the elderly or the very young to help them escape.

- Designate a meeting place outside of the home and instruct everyone to go there at once in case of fire.

- Count heads, stay together and do not go back into the house for personal belongings.

Western wood shelving expands closet storage

An easy-to-build closet storage system can be made using just simple hand tools and standard size western lumber.

At one time or another, you've probably said to yourself, "I wish we had more closet space."

But if you're handy with hammer and saw, you can easily devise and build your own storage center out of simple western pine boards.

First, measure your closet for working dimensions—height, width and depth. Then decide what your needs are; do you want ample shelving for shoes and folded sweaters, or would you rather use more space for clothes racks?

Next, sketch a basic design using your given dimensions and storage requirements. The storage unit itself is simply a top shelf with end supports and two to three vertical supports in between. Horizontal shelving can be added as desired.

Also remember that space for clothes racks can be doubled-up by using shorter racks for shirts, slacks, and jackets. Some longer racks will be needed for such items as overcoats and dresses.

From the basic design, figure your final measurements and make a materials list. Usually, 1x12-inch boards will provide sufficient depth. Racks can be made from one-inch wooden dowels with plastic end supports.

If you want adjustable shelves, drill two rows of parallel holes on facing vertical supports. Then use shelf pegs to support the shelves. Also, shelves should be 1/8 of an inch smaller than the width of the opening to allow for play.

Make sure to drill all necessary holes and cut materials to size before installation.

For a cleaner job, you may want to prefinish your project before installation. Use a fine sandpaper to smooth over any rough edges, then wipe the boards with a stain or wood oil.

Use fine steel wool to further smooth the boards and apply a wood paste wax for a final protective finish.

With materials ready, build the basic frame by first attaching the end supports to wall studs with 1 1/2-inch No. 10 wood screws. Next install the top shelf followed by the vertical supports.

Use a level to make sure the supports are plumb and anchor them to the wall studs using metal angle braces and wood screws.

Install the clothes racks and shelves as your design calls for.

Decorative doors add spice to any space

Looking for a quick, affordable way to dress up your home? Decorative doors are the answer.

A staggering variety of decorative door models, elegant and ready to finish, make it easy to redecorate as many rooms as you like. Each style lends a special personality to a room, and can easily complement any decor.

Today's French doors feature wood and brass along with beveled or grooved glass. And there are a host of other choices, from etched and frosted glass panels and colored glass to mirrors, louvers and raised wood panels.

Most doors are available in both bifold and single panel styles. (A bifold door has two panels hinged to each other, takes up less space, and can be used in pairs for large openings).

Here are some examples of how to use decorative doors to give your home a new look:

Frosted glass panels can provide privacy while allowing more light to flow into a room.

Decorative glass doors create interesting textures to the walls of a long hallway. Louvered doors help air circulate—an advantage for large pantries and laundry rooms. Louvered doors provide "breathing room" when used to separate sections of a master bath.

To replace sliding or old plain closet doors, consider decorative glass or Louvered styles. Mirrored doors are ideal to cover long expanses of wall space, and make a small room seem larger and brighter.

To separate two rooms, divided lite French doors, with their full-length transparent panels, offer a light, airy appeal even when they're closed. The classic elegance of French doors is especially popular now.

Cafe doors are ideal for dividing dining rooms and kitchens, dressing rooms and baths, and hallways and family rooms.

When choosing bifold doors, first measure your doorways carefully. When you've selected the style door you want, you'll need only a screwdriver and an electric drill for installation.

Most interior doors offer glass that's pre-masked with shrink-wrapped plastic film, ready for painting or staining.

Decorative doors add spice to any space, and open the way to a fresher, brighter look for your home.

Consumers 'Turn it on in the '90s' with electronics

Consumers are turning it on in the '90s with a vast array of exciting consumer electronics products that enhance the value of consumer lifestyles.

As we enter the '90s, the consumer electronics industry is generating excitement across the entire spectrum of its products. In video, this excitement centers on the emergence of advanced television and new uses for the television screen. Digital hi-fi products and multi-channel sound for video are sparking a renewed surge of interest in audio.

Product integration is best demonstrated by the home theater. It is the marriage of audio and video which creates a new dimension in family enjoyment. Personal computers, video games, facsimile machines and personal hand-held reference devices have drastically altered the way millions of Americans spend their working and leisure hours.

As home automation products are introduced, the electronic home of tomorrow will be available today. Accessory items and new types of software continue to enhance the enjoyment and utility potential of all the consumer electronics industry's product categories for millions of consumers.

The revolution in how America communicates, educates, does its business and cares for itself—all with the aid of electronics—has only just begun.

The promise of high definition television with true double-resolution TV displays nearly equal in quality to that of 35mm film, and digital stereo sound, guarantee that exciting times lie ahead in the consumer electronics industry.

Digital audio tape (DAT) recorders have been introduced in the United States, offering consumers compact disc-quality sound from a smaller audio cassette that is currently in use. DAT also offers a longer playing time than conventional audio cassettes.

A variety of electronic and electronic-related products and services are being provided by the consumer electronics industry to satisfy the needs of people with motor, sensory or cognitive disabilities. These products include those designed for communication purposes, including personal computers with scanners that "read" written materials, transform the words into braille, and either print a hard copy in braille or send braille letters into an electronic display which enables users to feel the letters one by one.

Also available are tools for the deaf, including telephone amplifiers that enhance the clarity and understanding of speech over the phone. Products geared toward the speech-impaired include voice synthesizers and speech devices which make communication easier. Home automation products allow bed-ridden people to be able to control their entertainment products, lights, and telephone and security systems, without assistance.

A variety of accessories which enhance the quality and life of consumer electronics products are available, including storage units for audio and video cassettes, compact discs, audio tapes and computer floppy discs; connecting cables to connect CD players and audio cassette decks to stereo amplifiers; and cleaners to clean video and audio heads and CD player lenses.

There is no limit to the heights the consumer electronics industry will achieve in the nineties.

At Home Household Tips By Maxine

Happy New Year to you all!

Now that the holidays are over did you catch yourself eating everything in sight? Were you one of the average people who gained seven pounds?

Did you start that diet yet?

If you haven't yet, here are some good reasons you should include exercise along with your diet. Here are some benefits of regular exercise.

Did you know:

Exercisers perform significantly better on measures of reasoning, working memory, reaction time and vocabulary than non-exercisers?

Regular exercise helps raise the percentage of beneficial cholesterol levels while lowering harmful cholesterol levels?

Regular exercise increases blood flow to the skin, helps protect it from the sun, and keeps it healthy?

Physically fit men are 53 percent less at risk of premature death and physically fit women are 98 percent less at risk of premature death than sedentary men and women?

Regular exercise reduces the risks of endometriosis-a cause of infertility-by 50%? Improved circulation from regular exercise typically increases I.Q. in older people?

Exercisers tend to have more positive feelings about their health, careers and stress levels than non-exercisers?

If you want to receive a copy of the Commit To Get Fit Challenge produced by IRSA & the President's Council on Physical Fitness entitled "The Benefits of Regular Exercise," send $1.00 to The Benefits of Exercise, IRSA, 253 Summer Street, Boston, MA 02210.

Budget Stretching Ideas:

What do you do with "old" video games? Store them? Throw them away? or give them away? There's a firm that deals nationally and internationally with previously owned video games such as Nintendo, Sega Genesis, Game Boy and others. The firm, Funco Inc. formed to fill a gap between the producers of video games and the user.

Now, consumers can receive cash for their old games and, if desired, purchase previously owned games for less than their original retail price, even if you don't have a trade in. Each game carries a 90-day warranty.

For the free catalog write FUNCO Inc. 4948 Highway 169 North, Minneapolis 55428.

Cruising Tips

On what you should know.

A growing number of people looking for a stress-free vacation are choosing cruising. A big reason for this is that it's one of the easiest vacations to take. You get to

What about your wardrobe? For a week-long cruise, gentlemen should bring a dark suit and ladies a cocktail dress. There are usually two formal nights. Tuxedos and evening gowns are not usually necessary. It's also a good idea to take along some comfortable shoes for walking on shore excursions. What else? Two bathing suits.

If you're an inexperienced "sailor," it might be a good idea to see your doctor, he will recommend an appropriate remedy.

Here are some quick household tips:

If anything in your house is lumpy, bumpy, stale or icky, you might just find the solution here. To soften white glue: Remove cap, then place in boiling water until glue softens or (glass bottle) run hot water over bottle for a minute or two then place in simmering water, or place bottle in microwave . zap for 15 second intervals. This also works for harden honey.

If sponge or loofah is slimy: Soak in strong solution of vinegar and water for a day, rinse often in cold water. Dry in sun, if possible. For Iced Tea that has caked: Keep soda crackers or part of slice of bread in container. Same for cookies. Toothpicks in jar absorb moisture. I use this for salt and sugar too.

To soften hard marshmallows: Put in airtight container with slice of bread for a few days or put in sealed plastic bag and dip into very hot water. Wrap in paper towel and microwave 5-10 seconds on high, also it's a good remedy for licorice, candy, fruit and gumdrops.

To refresh stale nuts: Fry in scant amount of oil, Marinate in lemon juice. If you keep them in a freezer they won't get stale.

This is the time to start thinking and planning the early spring and summer gardens. My favorite seed catalogs have been arriving in the mail, so I guess spring is on its way. Looking at new seed catalogs is a good idea even if you don't actually order your seeds by mail, because they're full of information. So many new varieties of vegetables, flowers and herbs that planning on paper before the seed planting is equally important and interesting. Many companies give a nice discount if you purchase early in the new year and 'freebies' consisting of flower and vegetable seed packets. Order now to get your new '92 garden catalogs. Send a postcard to one of these seed houses or all of them. The catalogs are free, they just need your name and address.

Here are some fun facts that might come in handy...

- To produce "moss" on new terra cotta pots, wipe with buttermilk. A growth of "moss" will appear in a few weeks.
- Terra cotta pots are cooler for root systems than synthetic pots.
- Save your old kitchen sponges, cut into 1-inch squares, and use to cover the drain hole in your flower pots. Keeps soil in and slows down the drying out process.
- Keep soil from splashing out of pots when watering, cover with 1/2-inch pea gravel.
- For garden trash wear an apron with big pockets or pin a bag to your belt. Keep planter from falling off porch or railing by hammering a nail into the wood and placing the hole of the pot over the nail.

- Hard coated seeds such as sweet peas and morning glories start faster if soaked in water overnight.

- Discourage weeds in cracks by applying boiling salt water, salt or motor oil.

- For gardeners' fingers clean with baking soda or twist fingers in lemon half.

- Use an apple corer for transplanting tiny plants and weeding dochondra or other small plants.

- Mark your seed rows by inserting empty seed packet into clear glass pop bottle and stick the bottle neck in the ground. Mark the packet with planting date.

- Use an apple corer for transplanting tiny plants and weeding dochondra or other small plants.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL COMMISSIONER'S SALE OUR FILE NO. 22775

(IT IS ADVISED THAT INTERESTED PARTIES CONSULT THEIR OWN ATTORNEYS BEFORE BIDDING AT FORECLOSURE SALES)

Public Notice is hereby given pursuant to a Judgement entered in the above entitled cause on 10/9/91.

I, Adam Bourgeois, Special commissioner for this court will on March 6, 1992 at the hour of 2:00 p.m. at the front door of Lake County Courthouse, 18 North County Street, Waukegan Illinois, sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described premises:

4200 Douglas Dr., Zion, IL 60099

The improvements on the property consist of single family, wood frame, two story dwelling with an attached garage.

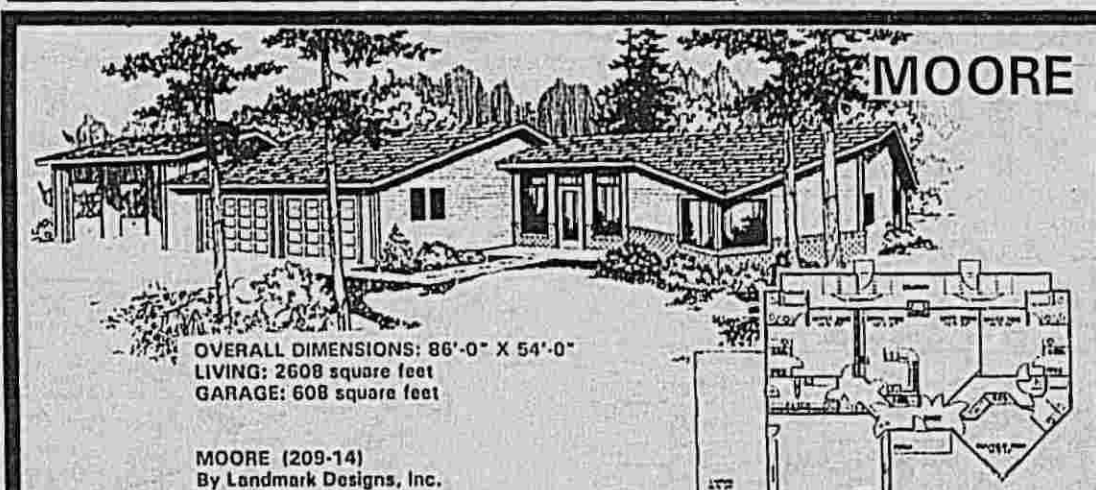

Sale Terms: 10% down by certified funds, balance within 24 hours, certified funds. No refunds. The sale shall be subject to general taxes and to special assessments.

The property will NOT be open for inspection.

The judgment amount was $114,957.03.

Upon the sale being made the purchaser will receive a Certificate of sale which will entitle the purchaser to a deed on a specified date unless the property is redeemed according to law.

For information call the Sales Officer at Plaintiff's Attorney, Fisher and Fisher, 30 North LaSalle, Chicago, Illinois. (312) 372-4784 from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m., however under Illinois law, the Sales Officer is not required to provide additional information other than that set forth in this notice.

With two identical master suites, located at opposite ends of the home, the Moore is well-adapted for dual ownership or shared occupancy.

Both suites have a spacious (14 by 15 foot) sleeping area with sliding glass doors that open into a 6-foot wide solarium that stretches across most of the back of the home. The solarium's ceiling, vaulted and richly strewn with skylights, makes it a natural for passive solar heating. Portions could also be used as a green house for winter gardening, if desired.

Other features in the master suites include a large walk-in closet, a private bathroom with oversize tub and separate shower, and a dressing area with an additional lavatory.

A large den/guest room juts out at the front of the home, adding street interest. The room's sleeping area, almost as spacious as the master bedrooms, has private access to a bathroom shared by the rest of the household.

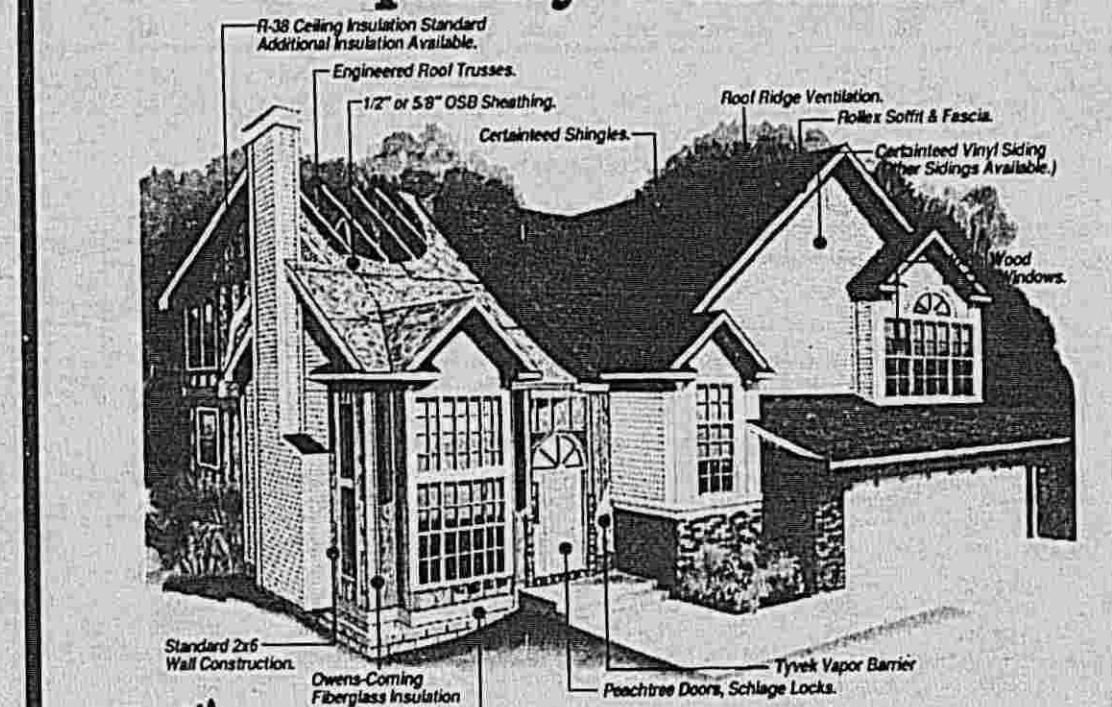

Family living takes place in the centrally located great room. Walls provide full separation at the back of the kitchen, allowing the mess of food preparation to remain out of sight when desired. Placement of the sink in a curved eating bar that faces out into the great room lets the clean-up crew participate in conversations or watch television while working. Cabinets and a long counter with a built-in desk stretch along one wall.

The utility room is positively huge, with built-in counters, sink, ironing board and space for a freezer. Both the garage and the utility room have doors that open into the carport. If direct access from the garage to the utility room is desired, this change could easily be incorporated into the design.

A 16 by 36 foot carport, which parallels the garage, is designed to accommodate a recreational vehicle.

For a study plan of the MOORE (209-14) send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Law would reduce flooding, but could cost homeowners

by DEBRA SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake County Watershed Development Ordinance by the Stormwater Management Commission makes some people living in flood plain developments nervous.

The law, expected for approval by the commission Jan. 15, restricts further building in floodways as well as limits what can be done if more than half of a structure is devastated by flooding. The ordinance is aimed at lessening the possibility of flooding and therefore reducing the instances where the government would need to extend aid in the case of disaster.

In keeping with state and federal flood plain guidelines, in the event of substantial damage, the proposed law requires homes built in flood plains to be elevated or sealed against water damage. While there is no argument that the plan is good, who pays to raise or waterproof the structure is another matter.

Carroll Schaal, principal planner for the commission, said there needs to be some kind of process for recouping damages and repairing or replacing homes to their full value. Beyond what flood insurance pays for, "after a flood, there's usually mitigation money available from the federal and state governments to buy out the remaining interest in those properties. The funds aren't always there," he said.

The cost of elevating the home is "not covered by a normal homeowners policy because it is a mandated cost," said Adele Sturgis, who owns a Cook County home in a flood fringe area.

"There are few insurance companies that will issue a special rider that will cover the additional costs and the rider costs 10 to 20 percent over what you currently pay," she said.

Instead of paying to reconstruct a devastated home, the insurance company has the final say over whether to destroy the residence or pay off the policy holder, Sturgis said.

"All the rule is saying is if we're laying out taxpayers money year after year, once the damage gets so bad, let's put an end to this. It's a cycle of continued loss otherwise," Schaal said in support of the law's strictness.

The law, which is based on worse case scenarios, also does not allow openings of any kind to a basement below the flood plain elevation. No windows, no doors, no vents. Existing structures are grandfathered in, but if the home is modified to make it twice as large as it was, the entire home must be brought into compliance with the ordinance.

LV seeking indemnity on fees

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake Villa Village Board is seeking an indemnity agreement with local schools before voting on whether to hike developer impact fees for schools.

At last week's regular meeting, the Board instructed its attorney to draft an agreement that would make the schools liable for any lawsuits occurring as a result of the impact fee ordinance.

"If we do raise the fee and put the indemnity clause in effect, the Village will not be responsible," said Mayor Joyce Frayer. "The school districts pay all fees."

A lawsuit has already been filed against the Village of Crystal Lake by developers there.

Mayor Joyce Frayer said the Board's decision was based on two letters from Lake Villa developers Gottlieb and Bartok asking for reconsideration until after the Crystal Lake suit is settled.

"They both feel that the monies paid to the schools should be for acquiring land only," Frayer said.

Gottlieb is developing the Ashcroft subdivision in Lake Villa. Bartok is working on the Painted Lakes and Winddance subdivisions.

Under the school impact fee ordinance proposed for Lake Villa, fees would be raised to $2,500 from $500.

The money could be used by schools for whatever purpose they deem necessary.

Part-timers help schools fill staffing needs

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Grayslake Community High School tennis coach Paul Keller is looking forward to a tennis workshop in Chicago next week, featuring pros and college coaches.

Bob Hauckdahl, meanwhile, is waiting for the telephone to ring.

Keller and Hauckdahl are two of the dozens of part-timers who are or have coached sports at Lake County High Schools in recent years. They represent a growing group as community swells in population sports are added, but sometimes qualified coaches are hard to find.

"I always enjoyed coaching tennis. I dry and keep on top of new trends, attending clinics," Keller said.

Keller developed the tennis program at GCHS since the 1970's. Last year, the girls tennis program was given to Chuck Olson. Although he is looking forward to the boys tennis season, the dispute was with the previous administration, which opted two tennis coaches.

"I'm still looking. I felt badly about it and still do, especially the way it was handled. This year the team is going right down in the dumper. I feel for the girls. Just out of the blue, I got a phone call," Hauckdahl said. "I've only been to a couple of games."

Hauckdahl's team had just won the regional title for the first time in school history. But school officials dumped him, opting for in-staff Coach Rick Green.

Grayslake High athletic director Greg Groth has seen the staffing problem from various views. When he started at Grayslake seven years ago, he was a teacher at Woodland Dist. 50 in nearby Gages Lake. This year he added the A.D. role to his basketball coaching chores. "I like it. I felt I was not as prejudiced at what the kids did. As a coach, I expect the players to be role models in the buildings. It has a different affect on you," Groth said.

"It is important we have part-time coaches. People think it is just coaching. It is discipline, it is communication, it is public relations," Groth said.

Stevenson High has one of the largest coaching staffs in Lake County, with a combined 80 part-time and full-time staff. Athletic director John Martin said about one-fourth of the staff are part-timers.

"We are in a growth area, so we are hiring a lot of new staff. When a teacher is hired, there is no implicit or explicit offer for coaching. It's tough to learn the school's policies and teach five classes and coach two sports," Martin, in his second year as athletic director, said. "It is important to have a good majority of the staff in the building. I don't foresee having every coach in the building that would eliminate a lot of good people," Martin said.

Two head coaches, Mark Schartner, the boys soccer coach and women's gymnastic coach Judy Harwood, are not full-time staffers. Stevenson draws from 12 communities and several feeder districts. SHS coaches Bob Schenk, who coached the volleyball team to two straight Elite Eight appearances, and girls basketball assistant Mike Fitzgerald, assistant soccer coach Kevin Heffernan teach at feeder schools.

Martin said the emphasis is on teaching first, coaching second. "I think it's a good emphasis that academics comes first. The better coaches also tend to be exceptional teachers."

At Antioch, athletic director Harold Abramson faces a situation with little turnover in the teaching staff. "Our turnover is very small, with three or four new teachers a year." Antioch, like all Lake County schools contacted, pay a part-timer by the stipend, the same way head coaches are paid.

"Most of our coaches are in it not for the money, but because they like to do it," Abramson said.

Ken Ricci, the award-winning athletic director at Round Lake, said he has seldom had to go to coaches outside the district. The Round Lake situation is aided by the fact it is a unit, kindergarten through grade 12, school.

Libertyville, which rivals Stevenson in number of sports teams offered, has 14 part-timers on staff. "I feel they are very competent. We are lucky in that each has a teaching degree," Dick Spangler, athletic director, said.

One of the long-time part-timers is Jeff McKenzie, assistant soccer coach. Libertyville's girls soccer team will defend its state title this spring.

"We base the pay on the stipend and the experience, too. A lot of it depends on the sport," Spangler said.

Early bird Malec gets blocks, boards in wins

Chris Malec and Antioch boys basketball coach Jeff Dresser are often the first ones to step foot in the Antioch High gym for each practice.

"We work together three days a week before practice," Dresser said of Malec.

The two work on factors which make six-foot-eight inch centers a force to be reckoned with. Shot blocking, positioning for rebounds, and accepting passes from the boards, then tied North Chicago 33-33.

When basketball fans come to watch Stevenson play, they are expecting a show from senior standout Chris Coleman. All recovered from an ankle injury early in the year, Coleman attracts the most attention from opposing defenses, and can entertain the crowd with a slam or two. It might even show up on Chicago sportscast, as one did in last week's game against Zion-Benton.

Stevenson has other weapons as well, notably P.J. Cole. "Cole was tough for us on Tuesday (a 79-59 Stevenson win) and he is starting to come into his own," Stevenson Coach Ken Johnson said.

Stevenson stayed tied for first in the North Suburban Conference with Warren at 5-0 (12-1 overall) in a 74-65 win over Libertyville. Cole had eight points in the win as Coleman paced the team with 19 and Eric Roth had 16.

Johnson feels his team has answered another question - which is like the class valedictorian picking up points on the grade-point average - as the Pats have given Jonas Jolson the point-guard role. "He has shown leadership and he brings the ball well. He is very quick and fast," Johnson said.

Matt Sriver led Libertyville with 24 points and Tom Simon added 12. "Libertyville played us real well. We played well at times but we did not play as well defensively as we did Tuesday against Zion," Johnson said.

Cole and (Jason) Justus ran the show against the Zee-Bees, combining for 22 points.

Libertyville (7-8, 3-3) had a hard week of it, losing a close 55-54 decision to Lake Forest the night before. The Patriots take their act on the road this weekend, at Lake Forest Jan. 17 and at Fenton Jan. 18. Meanwhile, they will become the biggest Wildcats fans. As the Wildcats host Warren Jan. 17, the team tied with the Pats atop the NSC at 5-0. Warren is at Stevenson Jan. 24. Get there before the 6 p.m. sophomore game. Last year's Warren-Stevenson game for the NSC title was so crowded the police were turning people away.

Mundelein (7-6, 2-3) earned a split. After a 70-61 loss to Warren, the Mustangs got over the .500 mark with a 60-46 win over Grayslake.

Round Lake (5-2, 8-7) will be glad to get back into the neighborhood Jan. 17. The Panthers take on struggling and rival Grant (1-5, 3-13). It's been a tough week for the Panthers - the tragedy of Panther Mike Brown's death, followed by losses to Northwest Suburban Conference favorite Marian Central and North Suburban contender Warren.

Pat Lejman was RL's leading scorer for both, tallying 20 against MC and 14 against Warren.

talented guards. Such work has been paying off for Malec since the Christmas tournament at Rockford and translated into Antioch victories last week.

"He was named second-team all tournament and that gave him a lot of confidence. We work a lot on repetition," Dresser said.

Antioch started the 1992 portion of the season at 2-0 with wins over non-conference Grant and North Suburban Conference foe North Chicago last week. Malec had 22 points, 11 rebounds and eight blocked shots in a 66-51 win over the Warhawks. Earlier, he had 22 points, seven blocks and five rebounds in a 76-53 romp over Grant.

"He is making his move straight up and is picking his spots better," Dresser said of Malec's shot-blocking ability.

Malec had an awesome night shooting against the Bulldogs, 10-for-11, and two-for-two from the free-throw line. He was 10-for-15 vs. North Chicago. "That is 76 percent shooting for the week. That is pretty good," Dresser said.

An 11-0 run put the game away in the fourth quarter at North Chicago. Jeff Woods, who finished with 17 points, had five in that stretch. Malec and Jamie Montgomery had two each and Andy Haley had one.

Rebounding was a woe for Antioch, (3-2, 5-8), who can improve their NSC status with home games against Fenton Jan. 17 and Mundelein Jan. 18 for the first half of the year. Antioch edged Grant 37-33 on

Gymnasts set for Lake County Meet

Area gymnastics teams returned with a vengeance after the holiday break and will get together for the Colleen Stephens (10th).

"It was really a turning point in our season,"

Peace in a dual meet and capturing the eight-team Lake Forest Invitational on the same day. A couple of days earlier, the Corsairs beat Crystal Lake Central.

Although Carmel's Sarah Mikrut has missed a couple of meets with an injury, teammates Bea Selz, Eme Cole, Jaime Wegener and Tanya Holik have picked up the slack. Selz was second in the all-around at the Lake Forest invite.

Mundelein outperformed Antioch 126.8-123.8 as Jenny Snell won all four events and the all-around at 37.5. Mustang Jenny Flacek earned two seconds, two thirds and third in the all-around.

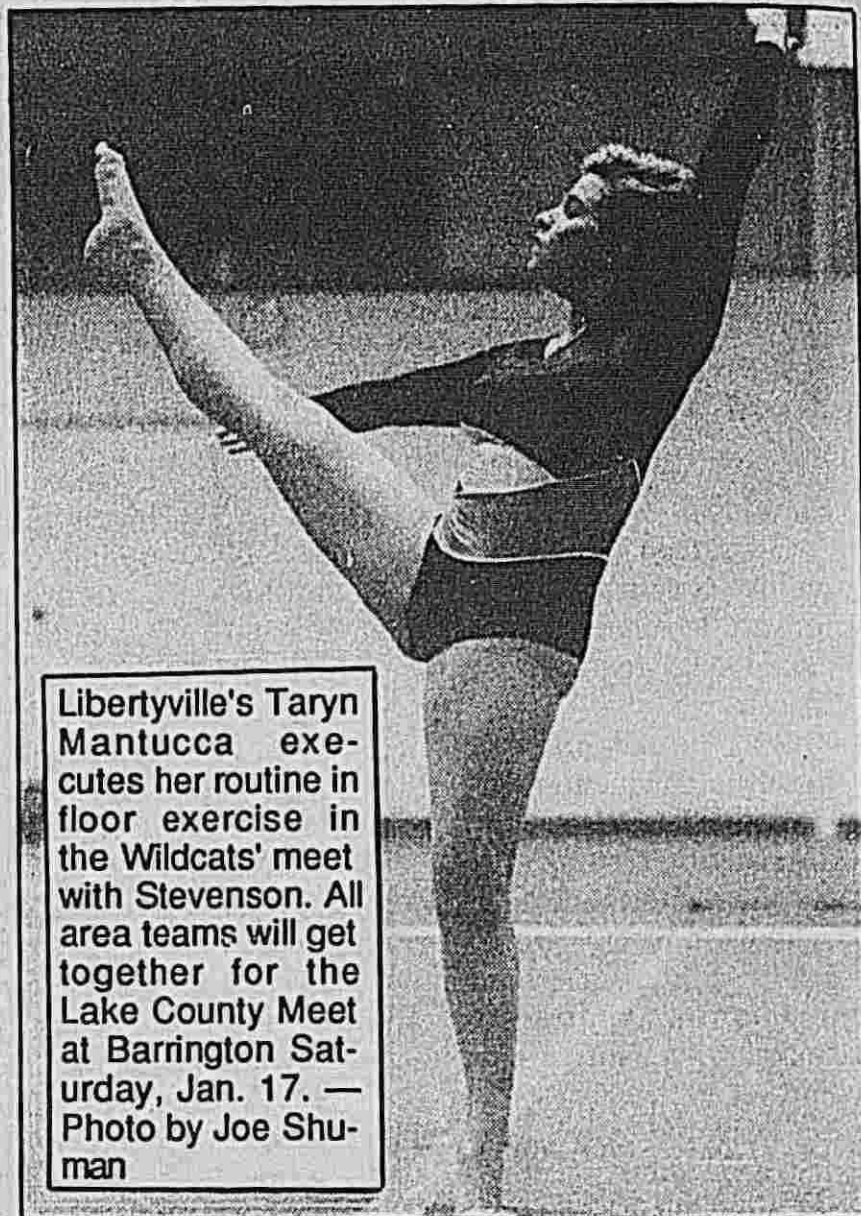

After slipping past Libertyville, Stevenson fell to Fenton but edged Lake Forest 132.5-132.4. Elana Patt and Emily Frisch (first and second in the all-around) led the Patriots against Lake Forest.

Lake Zurich won its first meet, easing by Cary Grove 102.0-99.5. Lindy Chisamore copped the all-around with a 29.9.

The Bears then stumbled against Crystal Lake South 126.9-109.1. April Pederson led Lake Zurich with a first on the beam (8.4).

"As far as I'm concerned, it was a win, considering how far we've gone since we started," offered Lake Zurich coach Vicki Summers. "Going from 97.1 (the first meet) to 109.1 is a big improvement. We're showing phenomenal success at learning from our mistakes."

PERFECT 10s

Lake County Meet at Barrington Saturday, Jan. 17.

After being nipped by Stevenson 135.5-135.4, Libertyville came back to take the Lake Park Invitational at 139.4. Elk Grove (137.3) and defending state champ Addison Trail (136.3) finished second and third. The Wildcats claimed four of the top 10 all-around spots, including Sara Schieffer (fifth), Wendy Gold (eighth), Taryn Mantucca (ninth) and Libertyville coach Curt Austin.

Libertyville continued to roll with a 137.0-129.4 win over Antioch as Mantucca won three of four events and the all-around at 35.8. Schieffer took floor exercise with a 9.3 and was second in the all-around. Antioch's Jenny Allen was third in the all-around, while teammate Jessica Kane earned a 9.0 on the beam.

Bauer helps JHS wake up in time to run past Grant

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Maybe it was the two weeks without sun. Maybe it was the stretch without a basketball game.

Whatever, the Johnsbury Skyhawks woke up just in time to race past Grant 48-43 in a Northwest Suburban Conference game.

Hitting the alarm first was junior Eric Bauer. Bauer finished with 16 points, 13 of those coming in the second quarter. It was Bauer who provided the home team with its key points - a steal and a layup for a 32-31 lead then another layup after a block by guard Erich Hoffmann for a three-point cushion. Bauer completed his run with a three-point play.

Bauer agreed with his coach, Jeff Lewiston, about the weaknesses of the Friday game. "We have to start playing good all four quarters," he said. He credited the sixth man with helping stir on the Skyhawks from a seven-point deficit to a seven-point lead. "The crowd really gets us going," Bauer, age 16, said.

Bauer continued his strong play the next night against Richmond. He scored 22 points in a 64-57 win. The victory gave the Skyhawks double-digits in the win column at 10-5 overall. Jeff Toller had 20 for the losing Rockets. Guard Erich Hoffmann added 20 for JHS.

When the season started, Bauer was not sure of his role. He was on the sophomore team last year. He has both started and come off the bench.
